

"WILL TO LIVE," FRIENDS' SMILES SUSTAIN CARUSO

He Hopes to Be in Italy if Death Comes.

BULLETIN.
New York, Feb. 18, 3 a. m.—(Special.)—The latest official statement on Caruso's condition was given out shortly before midnight. It read:
"Mr. Caruso is holding his own. He has had a better day and he is resting comfortably. His fever and inflammation continue, but show a lessened virulence."

BY JAMES WHITTAKER.
New York, Feb. 17.—(Special.)—"I want to die in Italy," Caruso said today shortly after he had come out of a painful crisis of the disease which is stubbornly contesting Caruso's will to live. That desire, it seems, is keeping Caruso alive. The doctors confess that it is not themselves or their paraphernalia. Their afternoon bulletin said:
"Mr. Caruso's mind is clearer, his pulse stronger, his temperature lower and his spirits better this afternoon." It was then 2 o'clock, an hour after the visit of Gatti-Casazza and Italian Ambassador Rolando Ricci.

Try Tonic of Sympathy.
By all the rules of science those visits should not have been made. The doctors have steadfastly refused to countenance the presence of even the most intimate of Caruso's friends hither to. But they silently permitted the visits of these two, and now admit that the tonic, sympathy and brief moment of outside life, which they contained have performed a restorative miracle for the sick singer.

After these visits the atmosphere of the eighteenth floor of the Vanderbilt hotel, entirely given over to Caruso and his staff, was surcharged with optimism.
It was to Ambassador Ricci that Caruso imparted his great desire to die in Italy. Sig. Ricci came in the morning. Caruso had passed a bad night, with one recurrence of the heart attack of Tuesday night. At the time of his arrival Mrs. Caruso and "Mimi," who is Enrico Caruso Jr., and the singer's favorite, were at the bedside.

Son Comes from School.
Young Enrico had arrived from Culver, Ind., where he is a cadet at the military academy, a few moments before. Father and son had embraced. Caruso's Italian salutation, "Ah, Mimi, mio figlio!" (Ah, Mimi, my son!) had been followed by a moment of great weakness.

When the nurse announced the Italian ambassador at the door Mrs. Caruso hesitated to leave her husband. Finally she and Young Caruso went to the door and exchanged low spoken greetings with the visitor. Caruso raised his head and asked, "Who's there?" Mrs. Caruso motioned Signor Ricci to advance.

The ambassador was wearing a white carnation in his coat lapel when he entered the room. He took it in his fingers as he crossed to Caruso's side and put the flower in the singer's hand.

Brings Royalty's Good Will.
"I bring in this flower," he said, "the hearts and wishes of the king and the people of Italy. I wish you the best of health."

Caruso fondled the flower as he replied.
His visitor spoke of the first time he had heard Caruso.

"It was twenty-four years ago at the Politeama in Nice, was it not?" he said.

Caruso's memory worked perfectly. "No, your excellency, it was at the Carlo Felice theater. I sang in 'The Pearl Fishers,' with my friend De Luca, the baritone—the rôle of La Vallée, not so?"

Signor Ricci nodded to that, and also to Caruso's further reminiscence: "I sang Massenet's 'Le Cid' that season also."

Hopes to Die in Italy.
After that there was a long silence while Caruso drifted off again. Suddenly the singer stirred and spoke: "I want to die."

His voice ceased. Signor Ricci interrupted with a horrified:
"No, no! Not in a hundred years!" And Caruso waved his hand weakly and finished his sentence, "I want to die in Italy. That's what I want to say."

After the ambassador left, Mrs. Caruso and the doctors anxiously watched the effect of the visit on Caruso. He had become animated. He smiled. Therefore, when Gatti-Casazza came in the afternoon, the doctors, admitting that some alchemy of human companionship was working here as their medicine could not, recommended that the singer's impresario be admitted.

"Ah, Mimi, Padrone!" (Ah, my boss, as Caruso's baby daughter, Gloria, calls for Caruso's baby daughter, Gloria. Those who have come to be near the singer in this crisis are: Park Benjamin Jr., brother of Mrs. Caruso, and Mrs. Benjamin; Frederick W. Goddard and Mrs. Goddard, a sister of Mrs. Caruso; William Glenney and Mrs. Glenney, another sister, and Mrs. Caruso's youngest brother, Romeyn Benjamin.

The elder Benjamin still maintains his absence and silence, commenced on the day of the marriage of Caruso to the young New York society girl, a marriage he disapproved.

LOWDEN REFUSES HARDING'S OFFER OF CABINET JOB

Navy Post May Go to Southerner.
BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—President Elect Harding's cabinet perplexities were increased today by the refusal of Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, chief candidate for the Republican nomination against Wood and Harding, to enter the public service at this time in any capacity.

This applies to the job of secretary of the navy, which Mr. Harding urged the Illinois man to take, as well as to the ambassadorships which it had been rumored Mr. Lowden might be willing to accept.

In making this announcement Mr. Harding said that he was sorry and expressed high regard for Mr. Lowden. He said he had wanted him in the cabinet.

Illinois Out of Running?
With Charles G. Dawes eliminating himself in a similar manner a few days ago, Illinois is to be unrepresented in the cabinet so far as any name now known to be under consideration is concerned; there was considerable speculation here as to the possible political significance of Mr. Lowden's decision.

There are those who see in this move a far seeing strategy on the part of Mr. Lowden to make himself available again for a Republican presidential nomination four years hence.

Mr. Harding was asked if this embarrassed him greatly in disposing of the navy portfolio, and he smiled and said it did not. But it is apparent that the navy post is more of a problem than the other unfilled places. A. T. Hert of Kentucky is here, and his friends intimate that he might be prevailed upon to take the navy or some other cabinet place.

South's Chances Strengthened.
The chances for a southern man in the cabinet have undoubtedly been strengthened by the defection of Mr. Lowden. Other southern aspirants are F. H. Houston and Newell Sanders of Tennessee and Representative C. Bascom Silem of Virginia. The word has gone out that Herbert Hoover still is in the cabinet picture, as is John Hay Hammond, the latter in the background.

Railroad men here have talked with Mr. Harding over the difficulties of the transportation act. This coal, said to have been mined in Pennsylvania, was delivered in London cheaper than coal from Wales, Northumberland, or Durham. American coal is already being sold on the continent, being cheaper than the British, but this is the first big invasion of the home market.

Lowden Confirms Report.
Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—"I have declined to consider the navy portfolio in President Elect Harding's cabinet and I will hold no portfolios in the official family of the next president," former Gov. Frank O. Lowden said at Pasadena this afternoon.

At no time has Mr. Lowden considered the navy offer seriously. He holds that he was not fitted for the place either by training or natural inclination. He thinks that events have proved that the head of the department should be a man trained in naval affairs.

U. S. COAL LOWER IN BRITAIN THAN BRITISH PRODUCT

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
LONDON, Feb. 17.—A sensation has been caused in British coal markets by the arrival this week of a cargo of American coal consigned to the Gas Light and Coke company, London's biggest gas producer.
The cargo, which was mined in Pennsylvania, was delivered in London cheaper than coal from Wales, Northumberland, or Durham. American coal is already being sold on the continent, being cheaper than the British, but this is the first big invasion of the home market.

WASHINGTON NEWS —IN BRIEF—

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 17.
Advocates and opponents of a sales tax as a substitute for the excess profits tax are striving to win the support of President Elect Harding.

Senator McCormick of Illinois in a speech generally interpreted as forecasting the new administration's policy towards disarmament declared against limiting naval building until the United States navy attains a strength equal to that of any other in the world.

The house judiciary committee will meet Tuesday to consider charges made by Representative Weitz of Ohio against Judge Landis of Chicago as a basis for impeachment.

Attorneys general from twenty states, Illinois included, have decided to contest the constitutionality of the transportation act and the right of the interstate commerce commission to override state statutes.

Miss Margaret Wilson, in a spirited defense of community center against recent congressional attacks, urges the woman's party to work through the centers in future.

The state department, it was learned today, in connection with the warning it has sent to China that cancellation of the contract of the Federal Telegraph company by the Chinese government would be considered as an unfriendly act, refused three years ago to uphold clauses in a contract entered into by the Chinese government with the Western Electric company.

LEARN "TIMERIO" IF YOU WANT TO "TELL THE WORLD"

Beats Esperanto, Rigda Inventor Says.
BY GEORGE SELDES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
BERLIN, Feb. 17.—With the aid of a new invention, known as the "Timerio," citizens of all nations will be able to understand each other, provided they can read and write.

"It is as simple as daylight," said the inventor, Herr Herbert Thiemer, a Russo-German, a native of Riga, in an exclusive interview granted a CHICAGO TRIBUNE correspondent.

"Some years ago while reading the label on a small bottle of drugs, I could read the Russian, German, and French, but was not able to understand the English, and yet the English words expressed the same ideas as the Russian. The incident aroused my interest, so I began looking for a sign comprehensible to every civilized man."

Works on It Two Years.
"At that time, while the great war was being fought, the scientists of the world were hard at work trying to devise the most complicated code system to hide their thoughts. Two years ago I began working in the opposite direction. And now I can say that my knowledge gained during the war will be of international use."

"In Esperanto, Volapuk, and other linguistic concoctions there has always been the difficulty of grammar and pronunciation. Ten minutes will suffice to learn the grammar employed in my method and you will be able to go to a porter in every hotel in the world, from Moscow to Tokio and make yourself understood by simply handing him a slip of paper written in my new language."

2 WOMEN SLAIN AFTER TERRIFIC BATTLE IN ROAD

Teachers Are Waylaid Near Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—Police dogs have been put on the trail of the murderers of two women teachers whose bodies were found near Parma High school, just outside Cleveland city limits, today. The teachers, who put up a desperate fight for life, were Miss Louise Wolf, 38, principal of the school, and Miss Mabel Foote, 24.

The bodies were on a path alongsides of the road, located about eight miles southwest of public square. Near by was a heavy fence post spattered with blood. The heads of the two women were crushed by blows with the post.

The two teachers left the high school building yesterday at 5 p. m. and walked toward state road to catch a street car.

There are only a few houses on Bean road, and none where the murder took place. The murderers are believed to have been in hiding beside the fence. After the two women passed they apparently rushed up behind them and struck them over the head with a fence post.

But the women put up a desperate struggle. Miss Foote clubbed her assailant with her umbrella, breaking off the point of it. Both women used their fists against the men, their knuckles being broken. Footprints show how they struggled back and forth along the roadway, crashing into the fence and knocking down posts. About 150 feet away was Miss Foote's wrist watch. It had stopped at 5:15.

The body of Miss Wolf lay face down. Her pocketbook was found underneath her body. A short distance away was the black handbag which had been carried by Miss Foote.

FEARS BANDITS; KILLS DETECTIVE; WOUNDS 2 MORE

Brooklyn Man Calls Armed Force Then.

New York, Feb. 17.—(Special.)—A wealthy Brooklyn manufacturer, obsessed with the fear of a bandit raid, today shot and killed one detective and wounded two others who had entered his office to arrest him on a minor charge.

Directly after the shooting the manufacturer touched off an automatic siren which he had recently installed to summon his employees in case of a holdup. Three employees responded with revolvers and two with two edged hunting knives, only to find their employer, Charles T. Davis, guarding a dead man and two wounded ones.

Police Again Puzzled.
When the police began work on the case they became entangled in a queer mixup which may result in sanity tests and a murder trial.

The three detectives called at the office of Davis & Geck, surgical supply makers, 217 Duffield street, to arrest Davis on a charge of having swindled an insurance company. His automobile had been stolen. He had collected $10,000 insurance. Then, it is said, he recovered the car, retaining the insurance.

Detective Joseph Bridgetts sent in his card. Word came back that Davis would not see him. Bridgetts pushed through the main entrance to the office, walked past several raised inclosures, and stepped into Davis' rooms.

Hear Shot and Cry.
Bridgetts just entered the inner office when his two associates, waiting outside, heard a revolver shot.

"He's killing me," Bridgetts shouted. "Bridgetts' companions, E. J. McGlone and George Horan, rushed in empty handed. They found Bridgetts staggering and bleeding. Davis faced him with an automatic shotgun in his hand. Davis swung the muzzle around and "covered them."

"Don't shoot; we're officers," shouted McGlone.

Davis tried to fire at them, but the gun snapped. Davis fired an automatic revolver from his desk and began firing. McGlone and Horan were both shot.

Sharp blasts of a siren burst through out the laboratory.

Davis Needed No Help.
Davis himself apparently had pulled the alarm. Just after firing the pistol. When the five helpers rushed in Davis needed no help. Bridgetts was dead. McGlone and Horan were on the floor, groaning. Davis patrolled the room with his shotgun and pistol, and within the reach of two large daggers that lay on his desk.

The two wounded detectives said that they believed Davis was obsessed with the idea that he was fighting bandits.

AID OF SLAIN EDITH CAVELL KILLS HERSELF

PARIS, Feb. 17.—Louise Thuliez, who during the war belonged to the nursing organization headed by Edith Cavell, the English nurse executed by the Germans, committed suicide today. She had been called before a magistrate to face charges of espionage and treason. It is alleged that she denounced several of her co-workers to the Germans in the days of the war.

Some of the Paris newspapers reported that it was Mlle. Louise Thuliez, a Belgian school teacher, who had been awarded several decorations, and who also served under Edith Cavell, who committed suicide.

According to dispatches to the Havas agency, Mlle. Thuliez, who lives in Lille, was greatly affected today by the false report.

STOP WASTING, HELP NEIGHBORS: BRITISH PREMIER

Decries "Outburst of Nationalism."

LONDON, Feb. 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—Premier Lloyd George, speaking in the house of commons tonight appealed to the banks to take a fair share in the risks of granting credit to the impoverished European countries to aid trade development.

Arguing trade is equally bad in all countries, he said, one must suppose that the governments were equally bad in every country, and that trade would never revive until all countries were ruled by an anti-waste league.

Less Distress than Before.
"We never have had a great period of unemployment with less distress," Mr. Lloyd George said, "because heretofore there had been no state provision of any kind, while today 12,000,000 people are insured for 18 shillings weekly against unemployment. Moreover, by huge effort the country has spent $40,000,000 providing for unemployed former service men."

The premier emphasized the baffling nature of the Austrian problem, owing to the breaking up of the industrial and commercial machinery throughout the continent.

"Outburst of Nationalism."

The premier alluded to the immediate outburst of nationalism in all countries.

"We have it here," he said, "in France, in America—a sort of feeling that you must build a wall all around and never hand a cup to your neighbor. People forget that countries are interdependent. 'Love your neighbor' is not only sound Christianity, but good business."

This was greeted with Laborite cheers and shouts of "come over here."

Wants Britain to Lead.

"Central Europe will be paralyzed," Mr. Lloyd George concluded, "until it begins to feel a little more neighborly, and it is the business of this country to lead the way again in this international task."

The amendment to the address from the throne introduced yesterday by John Robert Clynes, Laborite, regretting the government's failure to deal adequately with unemployment, was rejected, 262 to 84.

EMPLOYERS SEEK TO CUT PAY OF BRITISH WORKERS

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
LONDON, Feb. 17.—The Shipbuilders' federation will hold a meeting at Edinburgh tomorrow to discuss trade conditions. A proposal to ask the trade unions to consent to a 25 per cent reduction in wages is the principal item to be discussed. Employers in other trades also are discussing the necessity of reducing war inflated wages.

The final figures, issued today, on the work of the ministry of shipping, which comes to an end on March 31, declare that the net profit on all building is $2,500,000, to which is added $27,000,000 which the ships, while under the control of the ministry, earned by carrying freight.

The chief credit for the successful operations is given to Sir Joseph MacKay, the minister of shipping.

BRITISH RAILWAY WORKERS RECALL STRIKE THREAT

LONDON, Feb. 17.—British railwaymen's leaders today decided to abandon plans for a general strike because the government failed to order an inquiry into the recent shootings at Mallow of Irish railway union members. This decision was conveyed in a telegram to Prime Minister Lloyd George from the executive of the society of locomotive engineers now in session at Leeds.

RAILWAY UNIONS ASK CONFERENCE ON AGREEMENTS

Put Plan to Wage Board, Which Meets Today.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

The railway labor board, in executive session today, will consider suggestions made by the unions yesterday that it invite the railroad executives to meet with union heads in a joint conference with a view of bringing the controversy over national working agreements to an amicable settlement.

The association of railway executives meets this afternoon at the Drake hotel. It will consider a report from Gen. W. W. Atterbury, chairman of its labor committee, embodying a possible course of action in view of the present business situation.

Among current matters to be discussed will probably be one of a further economy campaign with a view of decreasing operating costs to meet the reduced revenues caused by decline in traffic.

"Time for Conference Passed." As to how it may stand on the question of a joint conference, the association's position may perhaps be conjectured from the protest made to the labor board yesterday by E. T. Whittier of the carriers' committee. "The time for conference has long passed," he said.

The theory of collective bargaining as diversely interpreted by the managers and the unions, formed the warp and woof of yesterday's presentation of labor's arguments.

B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, laid down the arguments, and Frank P. Walsh, counsel, amplified them. They insisted that the real issue at stake is whether the principle of collective bargaining as contemplated in the law is to stand or fall. Recognition of the unions nationally was the nub. The hearings have now brought out the old issue in bare relief.

The argument and counter argument are strangely reminiscent of the dispute over collective bargaining that broke up President Wilson's first industrial conference in October, 1919.

Labor's Views. Out of Mr. Jewell's brief and Mr. Walsh's philippics the following chain of reasoning stuck out, indicating labor's view of the fundamentals:

The transportation act in its labor provisions was based on the idea of collective bargaining through national unions. The act deals with the railroad as a national unit in the determination of rates, guarantees, etc. It contemplates railroad labor also as a national unit.

The roads act collectively in bargaining with the government. But in bargaining with labor the individual unions insist upon collective bargaining through the national labor organizations. National recognition is their basis. They argue that the stockholders act collectively through management, and managements act collectively through association, and that labor has the same inherent right.

Executives are walking delegates, so to speak, of capital, which acts collectively, they argue, and if success for the goods is success for the goods, then labor, too, in an industry which the government looks upon as a national unit, in a general way, ought to be recognized on national lines.

The executives are for collective bargaining of another sort—individual dealing with their employees through their chosen representatives.

Mr. Jewell asked for a recess of a month to give time for the employees to complete preparation of their rebuttal.

Cries Problem of Roads. Thomas De Witt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, last night said:

"At the moment the railroads are faced with serious and drastic reductions in earnings due to the decline in traffic. Approximately 350,000 railroad cars are idle, and probably at least that number of men have of necessity been relieved from railroad service. The railroads are compelled to reduce expenses and are exhausting their ability to devise every possible means of increasing efficiency and obtaining economy."

"In addition to reducing forces numerically they feel it is also vital to obtain a fair day's work for a full day's pay on the part of every employee. That is not possible at the moment by reason of the palpable unfairness of many of the rules and working conditions which require in many cases that men be paid for time in which no work is done."

"With the decline in prices of many commodities certain industries are asking the railroads to reduce rates. But rates cannot be reduced until the railroads are able effectively to reduce their costs of operation. That is the supreme problem now facing the railroad managers."

HOSPITALS NEED 840,000 BEDS, LEAGUE IS TOLD

There is a need for 840,000 hospital beds in the country, Dr. Frank Clare English, executive secretary of the Protestant Hospital association, said yesterday before the National Nephrologist Hospital and Home association.

"Our church hospitals reject 1,000,000 applicants annually and are losing an opportunity to care for 100,000 orphans and foundlings because we lack both room and finances," Dr. English said.

The speaker declared the Protestant church hospitals have begun to see the wisdom of coordinating their work and correlating their interests, and have organized for better cooperation. He said 24,000 children are annually cared for by 300 homes maintained by Protestant churches.

"But there are 100,000 homeless or uncared for old people in the United States who should receive attention," Dr. English said.

FARMERS FORM HUGE U. S. MART TO SELL GRAIN

Expect New System Will Cut Bread Prices.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Millions of American farmers will market their grain through a national sales agency, according to skeleton plans announced last night by the farmers' grain marketing committee of seventeen now in session at Kansas City. The public is being considered in the building of the new distributing machine, which is designed to cut the price of bread, remove waste between the farmer and consumer, and eliminate speculation.

The national sales agency will comprise hundreds of thousands of grain growers, who will agree to market their grain exclusively through the new system. Growers of all organizations will be eligible to membership. The central idea is that the farmer shall control and manage the machinery of distribution. The system is expected to be in operation in time to handle a substantial part of the 1921 grain crops.

"Crop" Elevators Ready. Elevator facilities now in existence will be used; nothing will be junked or discarded. An attempt will be made to convert all into cooperative institutions and wherever it is necessary new ones will be built. Many cooperative elevators owned by farmers are ready for use.

Growers who join the sales agency will go into contract with the local cooperative elevator association to sell grain according to the new plan.

The farmer will have the option of selling his grain through a pooling system or on consignment. Where the grain is pooled it will be transported to a national warehouse and later disposed of, and each man will get his share according to the quantity and grade of his grain.

Seek Exchange Seats. The national sales agency will dispose of the grain with its own facilities. To do this the cooperative farmer believes it will be necessary for him to hold a seat on the various grain exchanges whether he wishes to use it or not. As now constituted, however, he is not eligible to a seat. Bills are before the legislatures of Missouri and Minnesota and will soon be introduced in Illinois and other states to permit farmers' cooperative marketing organizations to hold seats on the boards of trade.

The new plan provides for farmer control of the warehouses at the grain terminal markets. The grain will be graded in government licensed warehouses.

Plan Finance Corporation. A finance corporation will be set up in order that farmers may provide their own adequate credit for the financing of their crop through local elevators. In addition an export corporation will be established to promote foreign trade and have charge of sales abroad.

It is proposed to incorporate the national sales agency in the form of a nonprofit, nonstock grain growers' cooperative membership organization.

With the framework of the plan built, the committee of seventeen is now hard at work with the details. When the plan is finished it will be submitted to a convention of farmers' organizations. The committee was appointed about six months ago by J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Auto Found in Ship Canal; Water Dragged for Bodies

Hammond, Ind., Feb. 17.—Through the falling of the waters of Lake George, caused by the high wind blowing toward Lake Michigan, the top of what the Hammond police say is a heavy automobile was uncovered today in the Indiana Harbor ship canal. Police removed the car from the canal tonight. It was found to belong to Jacob Schwartz, 3527 West Sixteenth street, Chicago. The car was stolen Feb. 9 from Wabash avenue and Congress street. Police will drag the canal tomorrow for bodies.

DR. ADAMS WARNS CREDIT MEN ON TURNOVER TAX

Calls on Merchants to Fight Proposal.

A call to business men of the country to fight the proposed sales, or turnover tax, was issued last night by Dr. Thomas S. Adams, chairman of the advisory board, bureau of internal revenue, and special advisor to the United States treasury department. Dr. Adams was addressing the Chicago Association of Credit Men at the Hotel La Salle, following a banquet.

The new tax would absorb more than one third the net profits of some business enterprises, he maintained. He advocated reduction of the higher income surtax and abolition of the excess profits, and some of the miscellaneous taxes.

"It's Time to Get Busy." "It is time," said Dr. Adams, "that the business men, the consumers, and all who desire economy in public expenditures arouse themselves to the menace involved in the propaganda in behalf of the sales or turnover tax."

"The taxpayers most threatened are those business men who concentrate in one line of work: small manufacturers, small merchants, jobbers, large manufacturers who sell to distributors and supply houses. The turnover tax would give a premium, and a big one, to combinations and syndicates."

"If the tax is introduced, the small order house which owns factories will receive a big bounty as compared with the house that buys from independent factories; and all small order houses will receive a substantial premium as compared with the retailer who buys from a local jobber, who in turn buys from a large national distributor, who in turn buys from the factory."

"We are told this discrimination against the independent dealer would be trifling. It would not be trifling, 1 per cent on gross sales is more than one third of the net profits in dairying and meat packing, even in prosperous years. It is more than one fourth of the net profits in the manufacture of millinery and artificial flowers, in the grocery trade, in the sale of many forms of leather goods, and in the wholesale food trade. It is more than one fifth of the net profits in the whole-sale lumber trade, in coffee roasting, and flour milling, rice milling and cleaning, smelting and refining, and the manufacture of leather goods, hats and caps, and some silk products."

Consumer Hard Hit. "The consumer has a vital interest in the proposed turnover tax. Of the $30,000,000 estimated tax receipts for the next fiscal year, 60 per cent would come from income and profits taxes and 40 per cent from other miscellaneous taxes. Most of these miscellaneous taxes fall on the consumer as such. That is, the consumer will pay 30 per cent of the federal taxes for the fiscal year 1922 on the basis of the present law. But the higher income taxes will be reduced and customs duties will be increased. That will bring the consumer's share to 40 per cent or more."

"In addition, the consumer is told by advocates of the turnover tax that all or part of the income or corporation taxes is passed on to him. Some of this burden is probably passed on. If it is as much as one-fifth of the income and profits taxes, then the consumers are destined to pay more than half of the federal taxes in 1922."

DEMAGOGIC RATS FIGHT THRIFT BY HARDING: DAWES

"Damn Those Who Stir Trouble with British."

New York, Feb. 17.—[Special.]—The next president of the United States is going to have a fight on his hands in his attempt to effect governmental economy, according to Charles G. Dawes, president of the Central Trust company of Chicago. He spoke tonight to more than a thousand members of the trust company division of the American Bankers' association.

Mr. Dawes, who is threatened with "conscription" for the post of secretary of the treasury, asserted that the forthcoming president should not attempt to work out any plan of administrative reform by piecemeal.

"The president must put that plan up in such a distinct and comprehensive shape that the people of this country can unite in their sentiment behind it and override the selfish interests which will attempt to block it," he asserted.

Concerning "Demagogic Rats," referring to those whom he described as "demagogic rats nibbling at the constitution of the government," Gen. Dawes said:

"These men who appeal to our prejudices instead of our reason, these men who would raise popular excitement, stir against the wealth and power, and Wall street, and all of the boys men so familiar to you all—let me give them a piece of raw meat with a little salt in it."

"I tell you that a man who endeavors to make it difficult for the next president of the United States to call the best business men he can get into service—like Edward R. Stettin, for instance, from the office of J. P. Morgan & Co.—is just as much of a traitor to his country as a man who, in time of war, when the interests of the country and its life are at stake, would rail against sending our big and fine soldiers to the front because it would make the little rants jealous."

In his advocacy of a centralized plan of governmental control over all administrative departments, Gen. Dawes described what had been accomplished in France by the creation of a supreme command under Marshal Foch. He attributed the defeat of the Germans to this unified command, and credit for it was given in large measure to Gen. Pershing, who was one of the guests at the banquet.

"Disgraceful Business System."

Gen. Dawes said that the reason the public attention had not been more directed toward the government's "disgraceful business system" was because the expenditures of the government were relatively so small in comparison to the tremendous wealth of the country.

An analogy between the president of the United States and the president of a bank was drawn by the speaker. He said that if a banking official failed to give proper attention to his company's affairs when things were going wrong the directors would promptly do to him "just exactly what the American people ought to do with that kind of president and that kind of administration."

He asserted that, with the exception of Taft, there had not been a president in the last hundred years who tried to effect economies in the administrative departments of the government and that even Taft waited until the fourth year of his administration.

"Damn the Demagogues."

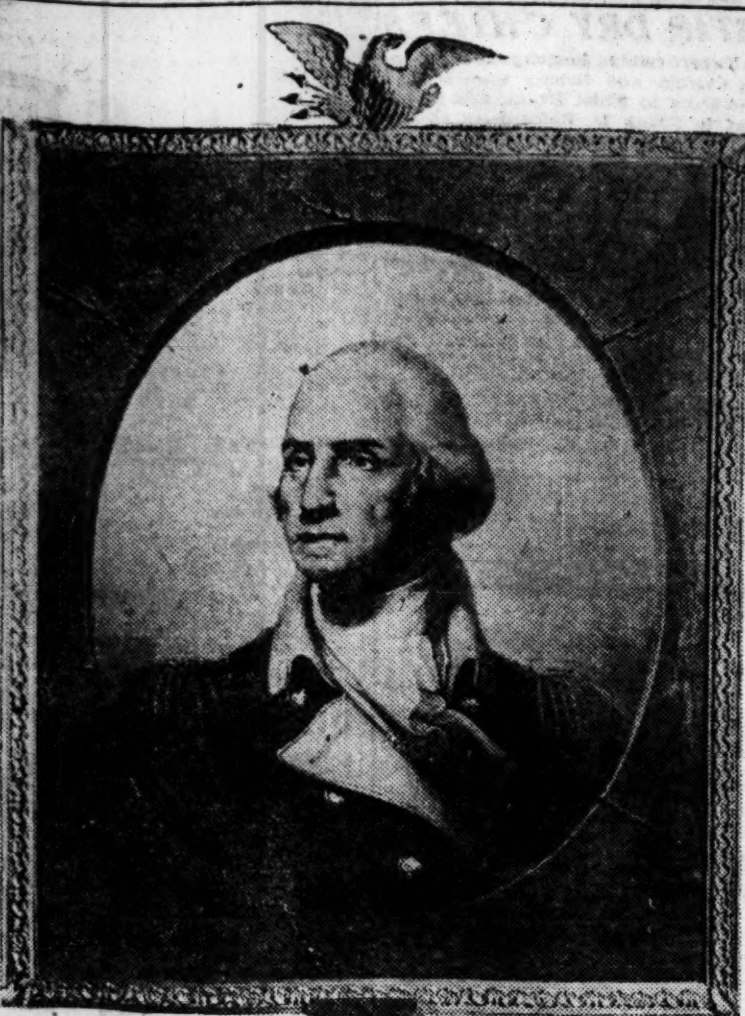

In spite of the great hue and cry made about the "pork barrel," Gen. Dawes said he did not hold congress accountable for the condition in which the business of the government is now found, nor was he inclined to place the blame on the shoulders of the administrative heads themselves.

Gen. Dawes ended his speech with a denunciation of those who are injecting the Irish question into American politics. He argued that the problem of Irish independence must be settled by the English and the Irish, "and by them alone."

His final plea was this:

"May God make the great English people just and considerate; may God make the great Irish people just and reasonable; but may God damn the American demagogue, of whatever nationality, who for political reasons seeks to stir up strife between the two great English speaking nations, in whose joint hands rests the ark of the covenant of human freedom and the cause of civilization for ages to come. This is not profanity; it is a prayer."

GEORGE WASHINGTON 'PEALED'

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A PORTRAIT of George Washington will be hung in the rooms of the Chicago Historical society on Feb. 22. The portrait is by Rembrandt Peale, a celebrated early American painter, who was the son of an almost equally illustrious artist father, Charles Peale.

At one time Washington sat for his portrait to Rembrandt Peale, Charles Peale, an uncle James belonging to the Peale family, and Rembrandt's brother, Raphael Peale. Gen. Washington looked at the group of busy painters and remarked: "Why, gentlemen, I am being 'pealed' all around."

Which bon mot has lived until today. It being a rare thing for the Father of Our Country to indulge in even the simplest wit.

The portrait is a splendid likeness and shows Washington as possessed of a beauty which other painters have denied him. There is character in the mobile lips, strength in the firm chin, kindness in the clear eyes, and wisdom in the broad brow. Washington is depicted in uniform, and the portrait probably dates about 1792—although the freshness of the skin would seem to suggest that he was younger than that date would make him at the time he sat.

This portrait belonged for many years to W. K. Nixon, from whom it was purchased by the late C. F. Gunther. Eighteen years ago Mr. Gunther was offered $10,000 for the painting, but refused it. The Chicago Historical society secured the canvas at the recent auction of Mr. Gunther's art collection.

FORD EXPLAINS HOUSECLEANING; JABS FORMER V. P.

"Kling' Liked to Flirt with Millions."

New York, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—A staff correspondent of the New York World sends a story from Detroit explaining numerous resignations in the Ford official force. He mentions the departure today of Hubert E. Hartman, assistant secretary and general counsel of the Ford concern. Mr. Hartman is the seventh official to retire.

The highest official who has quit was William J. Klingensmith, vice president. The dispatch quotes Henry Ford as explaining, for the first time, the "house cleaning" which is going on, and giving detailed reasons for Klingensmith's departure.

"Now 'Kling' is a fellow who likes to talk big figures," Mr. Ford explained. "He likes to flirt around, as I might call it, with millions. He's the kind of a chap who might drop in on a banker and say: 'Well, what's the chance of getting hold of $50,000,000 today—or $75,000,000—or $100,000,000?'"

Spread Financial Reports.

"We did not want any money. We don't want any now. 'Kling' had no authority to ask for any loan. But apparently he made some inquiries of the kind I mentioned, and that started the story that we were in the market for money. The story was spread far and wide by certain interests we are dealing with in our weekly paper for propaganda purposes."

"There was only one thing to go to prove to them that we didn't need or want money and that 'Kling' was acting without authority. That one thing was to let 'Kling' go."

Klingensmith in Chicago?

At the time Mr. Klingensmith turned in his resignation he told the Detroit newspaper that he "could not agree with the policies of the company." He was said today to be in Chicago discussing a new connection. He started in almost twenty years ago at $13 a week as bookkeeper for the Ford company. He rose from that to vice president and general manager at $75,000 a year. He is reputed to be a millionaire a couple of times over, as he has been successful in real estate in the suburbs of this city.

The correspondent concludes: "The answer to the question, 'What's going on?' is really very simple. A house cleaning—that's the answer. While some of these executives may have departed voluntarily from the Ford organization, the plain truth is that the majority of them were fired."

Graham Asked to Prove Charges Against Dawes

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—Chairman Graham of the war investigating committee was challenged in the house today for proof of his recent assertion that behind a "smoke screen" created by testimony of Charles G. Dawes "there are thieves and grafters going unwhipped of justice."

"I challenge that statement and demand proof," said Representative Garrett, Democrat, of Tennessee, a member of the Graham committee. "No man in his (Mr. Graham's) position has a right to make such a statement without having the proof."

$25,000 Blast Moves Mountain in Tennessee

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 17.—[Special.]—The biggest blast in the history of the United States was set off today at the quarry of the Dixie Portland Cement company at Richard City, Tenn., without mishap. Over twenty-one tons of dynamite, which was exploded at a cost of $25,000, reduced a solid mountain to 350,000 tons of rock capable of being moved by steam shovels.

FRIENDS, FOES, OF SALES TAX SEEK HARDING'S AID

President Elect Keeps
Aloof from Row.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—[Special.]—Prodigious efforts are being put forth by the advocates and opponents of a federal sales tax to win the support of President Elect Harding before he formulates the revenue revision recommendations he will lay before the next congress in his first message to that body.

One faction of Republicans is endeavoring to convince the senator that a retail sales tax, not exceeding 1 per cent, would be the most equitable and least burdensome impost that could be substituted for the excess profits tax. Another faction is warning him that the imposition of a direct consumption tax of this character would prove so unpopular as to spell the defeat of the Republican party at the next election.

Harding's Mind Open.

Although favoring the repeal of the excess profits tax, Mr. Harding is reported by the leaders of both factions to be preserving an open mind on the question of a sales tax as a substitute for the profits tax.

Representative Bacharach of the ways and means committee presented the arguments in favor of a sales tax to Mr. Harding at Marion and Representative Frear, also of the ways and means committee, returned today from St. Augustine, where he submitted to the president elect the contents of the opposition to a sales tax.

While believing that most of the criticism against the excess profits tax is unwarranted, Mr. Frear said that he recognizes that sentiment for its real value is so strong it probably will prevail. He will not object to the repeal "so long as no attempt is made to transfer the burden from corporation earnings to the consumer through the medium of a sales tax."

"I believe that now that the corporations have become accustomed to the excess profits tax," Mr. Frear said, "it can be continued in the future with comparatively little difficulty."

May Boost Corporation Tax.

The figures compiled by Mr. Frear are similar to those of Representative Good of Iowa, chairman of the house appropriations committee, who has shown that by keeping appropriations down to about $3,500,000 it will be possible to get along without a substitute for the excess profits tax other than some miscellaneous taxes, such as an increased tax on liquor and an increased tobacco tax.

Mr. Frear concedes that it may be necessary to increase the tax on corporation earnings and provides for such an increase in one of the alternative schemes presented to Mr. Harding.

This involves increasing the present normal tax of 10 per cent, and provides for a tax on undistributed earnings. It has the support of Secretary of the Treasury Houston, and appears to be favored by many of the Republican members of the house ways and means committee. Treasury experts estimate that by increasing the tax on corporation earnings from 10 per cent to 15 or 16 per cent the revenue lost through the repeal of the excess profits tax will be made up. A tax on undistributed earnings of corporations would be designed to correspond with surtaxes on incomes of individuals.

Would Reduce Surtax.

Mr. Frear said that he favors the reductions on the largest incomes—those of the top 1 per cent, and means to 65 per cent—to not more than 40 per cent.

Mr. Frear believes there is little danger of the approval of a sales tax either by the senate or by the house itself, but fears the senate might force such a tax through.

He will not accept a sales tax even as a special tax on the raising of a soldiers' bonus, although he supported the soldiers' bonus bill as passed by the house. He estimates about $500,000,000 annually for three years will be necessary for the payment of the bonus. By increasing the tax on corporation earnings sufficient revenue will be available for the bonus without any special taxes for that purpose, he declares.

RAPS CONGRESS

President's Daughter Wants It

MISS MARGARET WILSON.

MISS WILSON READS 'RIOT ACT' TO CONGRESSMEN

'Social Centers Not Their Business.'

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—[Special.]—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, threw down the gauntlet to congress today in her address before the National Woman's party convention in behalf of community centers work, and incidentally paid off a long score chalked up by the community workers against Representative Wood of Indiana for denouncing the centers as "hubs of socialism" and the use of school buildings for community dances as a waste of public money.

"It is any of the business of congress," Miss Wilson demanded, "to supervise the activities of speech of those they represent? One reason that was given in the senate for cutting our appropriation was that our centers here had been breeding unrest. I know of nothing that could uphold that statement, but even granting it, even if laws are broken in community centers, it is the business of the courts or of the department of justice to try the individuals who have broken the law."

"Another statement made over in congress was that they did not wish to pay the expenses attendant upon our dancing in our school buildings. Again I ask, granting that we have a moral right to use the school buildings, is it any of their business what we do in them, whether we listen to Socialist speeches or whether we dance? It was even suggested the other day on the floor of the senate that we should not be allowed to talk politics in our centers. Isn't that amusing? Suppose, that we should initiate a nation wide referendum to make new rules for senate discussions. What an outcry there would be. It would not be a lawful procedure, I know, and therefore impossible, but would it not be more logical and reasonable for us to make rules limiting the discussions of those who are accountable to us than that they should make rules for our meetings?"

"The community center is the people's machine," Miss Wilson continued. "It works in the open."

Opposes "Woman's Machine."

Miss Wilson foreshadowed the advice of political speakers to the convention tonight by urging the woman's party to disband and not to reorganize. "You are trying to form a woman's machine," she said. "There is no reason to suppose that a woman's machine will be more effective or useful than a man's machine. Why don't we honestly try to work together as human beings, interested in the welfare of the whole human family? Working only as women you are doomed to failure."

There is no doubt, however, that the woman's party will remain in the field. The only question is whether it will concentrate on the removal of all remaining forms of discrimination against women, or whether it will reorganize to work for disarmament.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Art O'Brien, who has been acting as the Sinn Fein press agent in London, in a letter today issued an attack on Cardinal Bourne, the archbishop of Westminster, for his admonitions to Roman Catholics to keep clear of seditious conspiracies. O'Brien attacks Cardinal Bourne for his refusal to intervene on behalf of Sir Roger Casement when the latter was condemned to death for treason, and he declares the cardinal has not taken any action against the British military police for their excesses in Ireland.

Calls Him British Agent.

O'Brien charges Cardinal Bourne with being the agent of the British government in trying to secure papal condemnation of the Irish republican movement.

The letter contains this remarkable passage: "It is just as well that he [Cardinal Bourne] and the leading English Catholics who share his views, should understand that not even the most devoted Catholic in Ireland, or amongst the Irish people throughout the world, will accept political guidance or dictation from Rome."

TRY TO BOMB BARRACKS

BY JOHN LESTER.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.)

DUBLIN, Feb. 17.—A bomb was thrown into the ship street military barracks in Dublin last night from Stephen street. The barracks adjoins Dublin castle. Little damage was done. A sentry at Portobello barracks, Dublin, was wounded early this morning when attacked by three men in civilian clothes. The attackers were fired at by the guard, but they escaped.

An auxiliary constable named William Wilton has been held for trial on a charge of murdering Thomas Lawrence Maryborough, an aged man. He is said to have been one of several police who rushed into the house and shot their victim dead in bed.

Claims for Burned Buildings.

More than 600 claims for compensation for buildings burned in Cork during the last two months will be heard during the Cork court sessions, which opened today. The counsel for one applicant said today he would produce evidence that a disorderly crowd of men in policemen's uniforms were seen firing the buildings.

The claims total over $4,000,000. Fourteen bridges have been destroyed in County Cork during the last few days to hinder motor transport. Two Dublin boys, Daniel Tynon and Daniel Stoneham, were court martialed today on the charge of having fired bombs and a revolver in their possession when arrested in Parnell square. Both declared to the court it was their duty as Irish republicans to transfer the bombs.

FIGHTS ROBBERS IN STORE AMID WOMEN, CHILDREN

Shop Owner's Son Is Shot
as He Routs Thieves.

Dozens of shoppers, including women and children, last night witnessed a revolver battle in a store on Thirty-ninth street, during which Morton Levi, 23 years old, was shot in the right shoulder by a colored robber. There was a crowd of shoppers in the butcher shop owned by Levi's father, Markus Levi, at 319 East Thirty-ninth street, when two Negroes entered the place. Young Levi was standing at the cash register.

"Throw up your hands," commanded one of the robbers. "Young Levi ducked under the counter and slipped into an office at the rear, where he got a revolver. Dashing out of the office he 'covered' one robber with the gun and began shooting. His father and a clerk, Clarence Griff, were standing with hands upraised.

Girl Hides Behind Barrel. Women screamed and ran out of the store. A little girl dropped behind a barrel.

The robber fired Levi's fire. One bullet struck the latter in the right shoulder. Again he dropped behind the counter.

John Meer, a watchman, heard the shooting and ran into the place as the Negroes fled. Meer gave chase, firing.

Both robbers escaped. One was W. H. SCHALLER, in army uniform, and had an army automatic. The other was an army cadet. They are thought to be the men who have been terrorizing south side merchants in a series of raids.

Young Levi was taken to the Illinois Central hospital, where his wound was dressed. He was a runner in the navy during the war. He lives with his father and mother at 469 Bowen avenue.

Robbers Wound Clerk. A man with a revolver entered a jewelry store at 2357 West North avenue and told W. H. Schaller, a 60-year-old clerk, to put up his hands. Schaller hesitated and the man fired. The bullet penetrated the left lung and the heart.

Leslie Roberts, another clerk, opened fire on the man, who ran outside and jumped into an automobile. Roberts believes he hit him. The police were summoned by Miss Lillian Brynson, who occupies an apartment above the store. No trace of the man was found.

Five men in an automobile yesterday took $3,860 from Paul F. Gromke and Walter Phillips, messengers for the Brink's Express company. The money was being delivered to the Strauss Becker Leather company, 1302 North Halsted street.

SEND A PANDER TO BRIDEWELL ON GIRLS' STORY

Another Held by U. S. Under the Mann Act.

A number of bellboys have been discharged, one man has been sentenced for pandering, and another will be arraigned today for violation of the Mann act as the result of confessions made to the police by two girls arrested in the Pasadena hotel, 600 North Dearborn street, last Saturday night.

Harry McMann, a former soldier and son of a St. Louis physician, was sentenced to serve six months in the house of correction. He entered a plea of guilty in the morals court. His story was corroborated by Blanche McMann, who was living with the former soldier as his common law wife.

Their Confessions Taken. The McManns, along with Marshall Gordon and Helen Schultz, told the police a startling story of what they characterized as vice traffic in a number of hotels. Their stories were taken down verbatim by Chief Fitzmorris, men, who retained the signed confessions. An investigation yesterday revealed that the four persons had obtained rooms in various hotels absolutely without the knowledge of the hotel managers. Hotelmen whose establishments were mentioned in the confessions declared they had discharged all bellboys implicated and were doing everything in their power to keep persons of this type out of their places.

Transported a Girl. Gordon, who was held by United States Commissioner Mason in bonds of $5,000 for violation of the Mann act, will be arraigned today. The Schultz woman in her confession charged that he had transported her from Chicago to Cleveland and Detroit. Richard Douglas, a colored bellboy employed in the Revere house, has also been arrested. He will be arraigned in the morals court today.

The arrests were made by George O'Connor, chief of the auto squad, and Detective Sergeants Revere, Sweeney, Sheridan, and Hays.

Holdup Man's Victim Dies; 4 Are Held to Grand Jury

Joseph Leparski, 32 years old, of 3163 South Morgan street, a laborer, who was shot by four bandits Feb. 2, when they attempted to hold him up at Thirty-fourth and Morgan streets, died yesterday in the People's hospital. An affidavit of $30,000 was issued by Judge Benjamin Rybak of 2187 Park street, Bruno Bogus of 927 West Thirty-fifth place, and Thomas Komkowski of 3161 South Racine avenue, were identified by Leparski as his assailants and have been held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each.

COSTLY FRAT PIN ON WORN LAPEL BETRAYS THIEF

Clever Sleuths Pick Up
Lake Forest Robber.

There was something incongruous about the general appearance of Fritz Braun as he stepped out of a pawnshop at Clark and Superior streets yesterday. That fraternity pin appeared entirely exotic to the shabby lapel on which it rested, and the gait with which Braun lumbered along was not one acquired in the corridors of a university.

"That bird's wrong," said Detective Sergeant Frank Casey. "Let's see what he hooked," replied his partner, Alfred Christensen.

Admits Lake Forest Robberies. A pawn ticket found in Braun's pocket showed he had pawned a $300 watch bearing the initials "P. F. W. P." The watch and pin, he admitted, were part of $1,200 worth of loot obtained at the home of Philip F. W. Peck in Lake Forest on Jan. 21. The police expect to connect him also with robberies at the homes of J. A. King and W. E. Clow Jr.

Braun, who has been living at 739 North Clark street, is also known under the aliases of Frank Williams and Fred Brown. He has a criminal record dating back to the age of 13 years, when he began serving a sentence for robbery in Hanover, Germany.

Robbed Aldis House in 1916. He came to this country in 1913, served a number of short sentences, and was sent to Joliet in 1916 for robbing the Aldis home in Lake Forest. He was paroled in 1917, but violated his parole and was sent back. He escaped Dec. 6 last.

"What will you do with the $40,000 your California uncle left you?" Mrs. Lillian Mallerup, cashier of the meat market at 3225 North Ashland avenue smiled. "The first thing I will do will be to own my own home," she said. "No profiteering landlords for mine. Then I am going to look after my poor relatives."

Mrs. Mallerup lives at 4034 North Ashland avenue with her husband, Fred. She received word yesterday that an uncle, George A. Lake Montclair, rich and eccentric prospector of California, had named her in his will.

"There was a clause saying I would not receive the money if I were on the stage," she said. "I used to be known as Lillian Elliot, and played from Broadway to Frisco. I have been off the stage for nine years."

COUNTY BUDGET IS ESTIMATED AT $19,600,005

Based on Expected Tax Boost; No Pay Raises.

Working on the theory that the legislature will soon increase the tax rate for Cook county more than 40 per cent, or from 35-3-3 to 50 cents, the finance committee of the county board today will begin preparation of the budget for 1921.

At a special meeting of the board yesterday estimates calling for a budget of $19,600,005 were referred to the finance committee. As the budget must be passed by Feb. 23, the finance committee has only a short time in which to complete its work.

Graham Explains Plans. The necessity of basing the budget upon the expected tax increase was pointed out by Deputy Controller W. J. Graham. He explained that last year the existent tax rate produced $6,500,000 revenue. Providing the rate is raised to 50 cents, the county's income for 1921 will be $8,337,012, he said. Mr. Graham stated the county now owes $7,000,000 on tax anticipation warrants and the first tax receipts of the year must be used for payment on this debt and its interest.

President Reinberg told members of the board no hearings will be granted heads of departments who are seeking salary increases for employees approximating $400,000 over last year's expenditure of $6,795,152.

No Money for Raises. "The county has no money to appropriation among the departments for such a purpose," he said, "and to hold hearings would only be a waste of time."

Except for additional salaries allocated among the eighty-two new clerks and bailiffs whom the judges decided to place on the pay roll, the 1921 budget is not expected to show any salary increases.

ADS FOR STILLS AND STILLMAKERS STIR DRY CHIEFS

Twelve foreign language newspapers in Chicago and vicinity were warned yesterday by Elliot Evans, first assistant to Frank D. Richardson, federal dry chief, that they would be prosecuted unless they stopped advertising illicit stills.

The bar in the Boulevard hotel at 2506-07 Michigan avenue was closed as a public nuisance by Federal Judge Landis. Special investigators testified they had purchased whisky there at $1.25 a drink. Judge Torrisson Wednesday issued an injunction closing the hotel on the application of Attorney General Brundage.

HUNT MYSTERY GIRL WHO POWERS

U. S. Aids Police
Seek Rum Ring

Cooperating with the federal day questioned many with assigned men to trail the angles in the killing of Thomas F. Powers Wednesday at the Englewood bank. Although the chief charge against the girl was that she had been in the investigation, the girl's statement. He said he would ask a grand jury to investigate the girl's involvement in the Powers case.

Money Not Banked. Chief Fitzmorris' theory, $1,337 found in Powers' might have been a part of obtained by robbers at the Trust and Savings bank. The bank. He said the girl was in Canadian bills. Powers was in U. S. greenbacks widow declined to state who had deposited by him in the National Bank of Englewood.

Among the witnesses of the questioning yesterday were Simon Riordan, a property owner in front of which the occurred, and Patrick chaffeur and pal of Powers with him on the night of the shooting affray at Erie streets. The jury say Powers was a whisky runner.

Chief Fitzmorris and Chief Michael Hughes Riordan and Fitzgerald be down at the Englewood police. They were closeted together hours.

Chief Is Retained. When the chief emerged asked: "What are the developments?" "I don't know a thing," he said. "Have you uncovered any of a whisky ring?" "Nothing doing. Not a thing."

"What action will be taken?" "I can't say a word yet," he said. "The chief has an automobile. Chief Hughes next one to emerge. "Any booze angles?" he said. "I don't know."

"We understand there were four policemen in civilian clothes in the shooting. What about it?" "That's the first I'd heard of," he said. "What about the five men with Powers and fled in a mobile? Any trace of them?" "Boys, I don't know a thing," he said.

Repeats Powers Started. Hence, who is held in custody is understood to have a story that Powers was a man that he directed a flow of language at him, and that he drew his revolver until he lowered him out of the saloon toward his hip pocket, and "We might as well burn and get it over with."

Hence, in a moment while being too closely watched, that all night the police searching for a girl who he shooting.

"I saw this girl at the time of the shooting," he said. "Powers fell to the ground when he ran away."

Riordan also repeated a story that Powers entered in company with five men minutes before Hence arrived.

HUNT MYSTERY GIRL WHO SAW POWERS SHOT

U. S. Aids Police in Quiz;
Seek Rum Ring Link.

Cooperating with the federal authorities, Chief of Police Fitzmorris yesterday questioned many witnesses and assigned men to trail the "booster ring" angles in the killing of Policeman Thomas F. Powers Wednesday night by Policeman Peter Henze, a fellow officer at the Englewood station.

Although the chief clamped a censorship lid on the investigation, it was learned that little progress was made. District Attorney Clyne issued the only statement. He said he would probably ask a grand jury investigation of police complicity in illicit whisky traffic.

Money Not Bank Loot.
Chief Fitzmorris' theory that the $1,427 found in Powers' money belt might have been a part of the money obtained by robbers at the Kenwood Trust and Savings bank Feb. 1 was invalidated by Eugene Ford, cashier of the bank. He said the stolen money was in U. S. greenbacks. Powers' widow declined to state where the $2,000 deposited by him in the First National Bank of Englewood came from.

Among the witnesses of the shooting questioned yesterday and last night were Simon Riordan, proprietor of the saloon in front of which the shooting occurred, and Patrick Fitzgerald, chauffeur and pal of Powers, who was with him on the night of Nov. 17 in a shooting affray at Erie and Clark streets. The police say Fitzgerald is a whisky runner.

Chief Fitzmorris and Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes questioned Riordan and Fitzgerald behind closed doors at the Englewood police station. They were closeted together for three hours.

Chief Is Reluctant.
When the chief emerged he was asked:

"What are the developments?"
"I don't know a thing, boys."
"Have you uncovered any evidence of a whisky ring?"
"Nothing doing. Not a thing to tell you."

"What action will be taken concerning Policeman Henze?"
"I can't say a word yet."

With that the chief hurried to his automobile. Chief Hughes was the next one to emerge.

"Any booze angles?" he was asked.
"I don't know."
"We understand there were three or four policemen in civilian clothes in the saloon when the shooting occurred. What about it?"

"That's the first I'd heard of it."
"What about the five men who were with Powers and fled in the automobile? Any trace of them?"
"Boys, I don't know a thing. So I can't help you."

Repeats Powers Starred Trouble.
Henze, who is held incommunicado, is understood to have reiterated his story, that Powers was intoxicated, that he directed a flow of insulting language at him, and that he did not draw his revolver until Powers followed him out of the saloon, restored toward his hip pocket, and said:

"We might as well bump you off and get it over with."
Henze, in a moment while he was not being too closely watched, whispered that all night the police had been searching for a girl who had seen the shooting.

"I saw this girl at the time I fired the shot," he said. "Powers had to follow her to the ground when I noticed her run away."
Riordan also repeated his original story that Powers entered the saloon in company with five men a few minutes before Henze arrived. He knew

THREE GENERATIONS

Left to right—J. B. Thomas, Mrs. J. B. Thomas, the Rev. N. M. Stokes, Mrs. Walter Hynes, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, and Richard Walter Hynes, great-grandchild. Master Richard was baptized as the Thomases celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

MR. AND MRS. J. B. THOMAS, residents of Chicago for forty-eight years, are starting on the third quarter of a century of their married life. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday night at their home, 4264 Emerald avenue. Among the guests were one daughter, five grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. In the afternoon they entertained more than 100 members of the Lincoln G. A. R. post. They were married in Union City, Ind., in 1871. Mr. Thomas was at one time prosecuting attorney for the Town of Lake. He practiced law for forty-eight years.

During the anniversary celebration a great-grandson, Richard Walter Hynes, was baptized by the Rev. J. P. Stafford, assisted by the Rev. N. M. Stokes.

9 DANCING GIRLS; SIX GRIM COPS; A STAG AT BAY
A fitting title for the entertainment given by the "Sportman's club" last night in Mozart hall, Clybourn avenue and Orchard street, would be "Too Many Cops." Although the nine dancing girls provided by Mme. Mazelle, 4507 Prairie avenue, were the whippersnappers, six uniformed policemen were an added feature not on the program. Five hundred "members" of the club who paid $2 apiece to attend the stag centered their attention on the officers of the law. A rumor that the police might be persuaded to leave kept them waiting until 11 o'clock, when the show was called off with an apology by the master of ceremonies.

The only sensation of the evening was a knockout in the third round of a bout between "Kid" Mike and "Kid" Turbin, welterweights, the sleep producer being administered by the former. "Nicky" Smith, a monologist, told a blue joke and followed hastily with a much milder one when one of the cops coughed and scraped his feet. The dancing girls were sufficiently clad to satisfy any city ordinance and conducted themselves in a decorous manner. It had been rumored they would be somewhat daring.

Check Powers' Police Record.
A check of Powers' police record disclosed that last September he was fined twenty days' pay for intoxication. The charge read that "he was found in Riordan's saloon so drunk that he had to be locked up for his own safety and the safety of others." His second suspension was in October, when he and Fitzgerald were involved in the north side shooting. No charges were preferred against him, and one of Gary's last acts was to reinstate him.

Henze had been a member of the police department since May 7, 1917. In October of 1917 he was tried before the trial board on a charge of drunkenness, but the evidence was found insufficient. In March of 1920 he was again charged with intoxication. He was fined three days' pay.

Henze lives at 5437 South Lincoln street. Powers lived at 5624 Lowe avenue.

HOUSE HEARING ON JUDGE LANDIS SET FOR TUESDAY
Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—[Special.]—The impeachment charges against Judge Landis of Chicago made by Representative Welby of Ohio will be taken up by the house judiciary committee on Tuesday.

Chairman Volstead today issued a call for a meeting of his committee on that date for the purpose of considering the evidence supporting the charges against the judge of "high crimes and misdemeanors" in accepting the job as arbitrator in national baseball and in holding dual jobs and receiving dual pay.

He urged an early decision whether the investigation should be continued or abandoned by the committee as unsubstantiated by the facts presented. The navy department today declined to make public the record in the case of former Lieut. Haskell Dial, son of Senator Dial, who was permitted to resign from the navy "for the good of the service," after charges had been made against him in connection with his duties as an officer of the supply corps in 1910.

Mr. Priehard was chosen to head a delegation which will ask Building Commissioner Charles Boettner to stop work on the building. The permit to build was gained through fraud, it is claimed.

'SONNY' FIGHTS REVOLVER CASE; IT'S AUTOMATIC

Gunman Jovial as He Goes to Trial Before Jury.

Do you know when a revolver is a pistol?

The fastidious William "Sonny" Dunn believes that the technical question on ordinance will help him squirm through the fingers of the law that he has been dodging for years.

The natty gunman and his counsel, former State's Attorney James C. O'Brien and John Prydzinski, opened a light hearted battle yesterday when the case came to trial in Chief Justice Charles A. McDonald's Criminal court. They baited deputy sheriffs who were called as witnesses, grinned at each bit of testimony in support of the "gun totting" charge, and went into reminiscent detail concerning numerous drinks deputy sheriffs gave Dunn after they captured him Jan. 2 in a raid on a cock fight at the Sag.

Malato Outlines Case.
Special Prosecutor Stephen Malato in his opening statement to the jury explained that Dunn is on trial now for violation of the Sadler act, which prohibits the carrying of deadly weapons.

Deputy Sheriff Otto Gnewuch testified he had charge of the raiders who captured Dunn at Ed Hanrahan's place. The weapon, an army Colts .45 automatic pistol, was offered in evidence.

"Was Dunn drunk when arrested?" asked Attorney O'Brien.
"No."
"Was he drunk when you got him to jail?"

"Object," shouted Attorney Malato.
"Why?" demanded O'Brien, before the judge could sustain the objection.
"Didn't they have a good little booze party?"

Gnewuch Tells of Arrest.
"We found Dunn in the balcony," said Gnewuch, "leaning over the rail watching the fight. We seized his arms. This gun fell to the floor. We had to use a little force getting him into our automobile, but when he got in he seemed peaceful enough. He asked for a drink. He seemed to need it, so we took him past my home and gave him one or two. Then we passed the home of Deputy Hackland and got him another. We did not take any drink."

"What is that you say the prisoner dropped?"
"That is the revolver."
"As a matter of fact, then, you don't know that it is a revolver at all, but an automatic pistol?"

Attorney Malato explained after adjournment that the indictment does read "revolver," but that it also reads "or deadly weapons," to cover all forms of ordnance.

HOLDS COUNCIL OF CARPENTERS IS IN CONTEMPT

Sequel to Ban Put on Nonunion Goods.

Holding that the Carpenters' District council, by threats and intimidations against a manufacturer, is guilty of contempt for violation of an injunction, Master in Chancery William H. A. Rust yesterday recommended such punishment as court may direct. Judge Torrence of the Circuit court will act on the recommendation next Wednesday.

In a recent opinion he recommended jail sentences for William Brims, president of the council, and Thomas F. Church, a business agent. Brims was one of the forty-seven mill men, labor union officials, and contractors indicted three weeks ago by a federal grand jury on charges of violating the anti-trust section of the Sherman law.

Contempt charges were brought against Brims, Church, and the district council by the Anderson & Lind Manufacturing company. The company alleges Brims and Church hindered construction of a building at 4027 Irving Park boulevard by threats, intimidations, and overt acts.

Nonunion Material Barred.
Robert A. Pottinger, the builder, had contracted with Anderson & Lind for the interior finishing for the building, but Brims and Church would not allow union carpenters to put them in, because they did not bear the union label.

Master in Chancery Rust holds the council as a body is guilty. A fine is the only possible punishment. The court may attach the cash and property of the council for payment of the fine, but no individuals are punishable except the two before named as guilty of contempt.

Injunction Issued in 1915.
Deputy Attorney General Stephen Malato in his opening statement to the jury explained that Dunn is on trial now for violation of the Sadler act, which prohibits the carrying of deadly weapons.

Deputy Sheriff Otto Gnewuch testified he had charge of the raiders who captured Dunn at Ed Hanrahan's place. The weapon, an army Colts .45 automatic pistol, was offered in evidence.

M. V. L. REPORTS ON CANDIDATES FOR ALDERMEN

Makes Vote on Bond Issue a Test of Fitness.

The Municipal Voters' league in its report on candidates for alderman issued yesterday points out what aldermen now seeking reelection voted for and against the proposed $5,000,000 bond issue.

"It is felt," says the report, "that those who voted in favor of it thereby placed their stamp of approval on the extravagance of the present city administration, which has resulted in a $5,000,000 deficit—a fact which the voters should know in deciding upon the fitness of candidates."

"The voters should elect men whose record and reputation are a guaranty that they will check this extravagance, otherwise the process of boosting taxes is bound to continue."

These Voted Against It:
The half dozen who voted against the bond issue are:

Joseph B. McDonough, Fifth ward.
Charles S. Eaton, Sixth ward.
Guy Guernsey, Seventh ward.
Frank Klaus, Tenth ward.
Thomas O. Wallace, Twenty-third ward.

Albert J. Fisher, Thirty-second ward.
The league warns the voters that the main aldermanic election is next Tuesday under the new law. It further says that "the law now stands there will be no aldermanic election next year." Redistricting the city into fifty wards, thus eliminating "the present outrageous inequalities in population," is listed as one of the important tasks of the next city council.

Summary of Recommendations.
A summary of the recommendations is as follows (wards in which there is no contest are omitted):

FIRST WARD.
Vote for George Hodge, publisher of Union Labor Advocate. Michael Kenna (Kenna Dink) utterly unfit.

SECOND WARD.
Vote for Ralph Henderson, colored, clothing cutter, industrious man with clear record. Louis B. Anderson, colored alderman, leader in reckless overloading of budget. Last year gained public indignation by his activities in behalf of policeman who was later convicted of luring to a house of prostitution Bertha Webeck, 17 year old Kansas girl, who died of cancer. This man holds up Mayor Thompson's hoop for the aldermen to jump through.

THIRD WARD.
Vote for Edward D. Lowenthal, president of Tire Reinforcement company, successful business man of energy and public spirit. Ira Solomon, served with American force in Siberia, the stock trader. John H. Johnson, sales manager of investment house, general reputation good, recently selected candidate of Ward Committee. Fisher, attorney of the Thompson school board.

FOURTH WARD.
Vote for Ald. Timothy A. Hogan or Walter J. Norburn. Hogan frequently votes with city hall; record shows energy and skill. Norburn, real estate dealer, has made his own way in industry and commerce. James F. O'Brien, saloonkeeper, in whose place Philipman Richard Burke was murdered and for which O'Brien was indicted. Fisher Joseph McNamee says that O'Brien's saloon has been a hangout for thieves for several years.

FIFTH WARD.
Vote for Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, man of sturdy independence, who has refused to submit to the mayor's dominion of city council. Ald. Robert J. Mulcahy, finishing third year in council with poor record, follows the lead of Louis B. Anderson and has induced front of Thompson organization. Florence S. Hall, teacher in Medill High school, conscientious and reliable woman of high qualifications.

SIXTH WARD.
Vote for Ald. Charles S. Eaton, finishing second term, where he has voted and worked with best element. Frederick J. Howe, real estate broker, good reputation. Herman Ford, insurance broker, record clear.

SEVENTH WARD.
Vote for Ald. Guy Guernsey, by all means should be re-elected. Finishing third year with good record. Vandorf Gray, lawyer and Lester V. Bratton, instructor by mail in aviation, are the other candidates.

EIGHTH WARD.
Vote for Ross A. Woodhull, vigorous and effective speaker; generally good record. George W. Kohler, operates Turkish bath.

NINTH WARD.
No recommendation. Charles V. Johnson consumed much time while in council in seaport harangues; his attitude on war was questioned by aldermen; voting record good. Ald. Guy Maderom faithfully jumps through mayor's hoop.

TENTH WARD.
Vote for Ald. Frank Klaus. Has to his credit many votes for economy. His courage and public spirit should be rewarded. Opposed by two political machines. Ald. James McChesno, fair record; recently has begun to cave in under pressure of city hall bosses. George J. Trust and John J. Jelinek men of good reputations.

ELEVENTH WARD.
Vote for Ald. Dennis A. Moran. Bears good reputation in city council.

THIRTEENTH WARD.
Vote for Albert J. Moran, district sales manager; full of energy and unusual independence. Ald. S. O. Shaffer has little to say in council; bears good reputation.

FOURTEENTH WARD.
Vote for Ald. George M. Maypole, active and capable committee chairman, general attitude on public questions progressive. Daniel G. Gerst, lawyer, good reputation. H. W. Harris, draught, good reputation.

FIFTEENTH WARD.
Vote for John M. Collins, machinist, Socialist candidate for mayor, good reputation. Ald. Edward J. Rainold, finishing second term with record showing some improvement.

SIXTEENTH WARD.
Vote for John Czekala, former alderman who made clean record in local industries committee. Bruno S. Miesner, former member of state board of equalization, and Louis Schner, machinist, other candidates.

SEVENTEENTH WARD.
Vote for John Jankowski, lawyer, with good reputation for industry, ability, and character. Ald. Stanley Adamkiewicz, lack

HARDING BALKS INQUIRY INTO "EXPERTS'" FEES

Fails to Appear Before Aldermen.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The council finance committee tried to rain yesterday afternoon to unravel the details concerning the payment of $1,004,000 to Frank H. Meese and August J. Lynch, two city building experts. While this inquiry was in progress the public affairs committee of the Western Society of Engineers and the Civic Federation were issuing statements recommending that the election vote against the proposed $3,000,000 bond issue which is asked to pay the city's debts.

"At the last meeting we decided to ask the controller how more than $1,000,000 could be paid to these two building experts when only $200,000 was appropriated for the services of building experts," Ald. Wallace stated when the finance committee met. "I hope that the city controller be asked to step down and explain on what authority the payments were made."

"I second the motion," said Ald. McCormick.

Anderson's Fight Futile.
Ald. L. B. Anderson, spokesman for the city administration, did not see the need of asking the controller to show up but the committee passed the motion with L. B. Anderson voting no. The secretary of the committee phoned the controller's office and then told the committee that Mr. Harding would appear in a few minutes. The committee waited and waited. Mr. Harding did not show himself. Ald. Anderson twice suggested an adjournment.

"You can make a joke out of spending more than $1,000,000 if you desire," said Wallace. "I take it more seriously. The last grand jury is reported to have taken it seriously, and when that grand jury is said to have considered the question it was dismissed. The tax and rent payers can't see the joke, even if you can."

It was decided to phone the city controller's office again. The committee secretary later reported that he was unable to say when Mr. Harding would appear. After waiting a few minutes longer the committee adjourned. These building experts were paid from a street improvement bond issue, not from current income.

Views of Engineers.
The engineering society discussed the proposed bond issue to pay current expenses. Its statement says that "it is the opinion of the committee that any financial plan of issuing long term bonds to pay current expenses is not only unsound in principle but is a demoralizing and expensive way of carrying on business, municipal or otherwise."

The Civic Federation suggests that the issuance of these bonds will give another excuse for another boost in rents. "The majority in the city council in recent years have shown an increasing tendency to appropriate, in response to organized demands for expenditures, revenues of the revenues available under existing laws," reads the federation statement, "and then depending upon the power to borrow money to make up the deficit."

Means Rent Boosts.
"Thus, submitting bond issues to finance deficits is getting to be a habit, which has become so bad that the city finance department and the council finance committee at first recommended a bond issue not only sufficient to finance the 1920 deficit but also to borrow money to finance a deficit in sight for the coming year."

"Bonds are really taxes—affecting rents directly—and taxes to pay principal and interest on bonds are levied outside of the legal tax rate limit. One way around the tax rate limit is to use all the revenue it allows, run up to all for additional supplies, and induce voters to approve of bond issues to pay the bills. The longer this policy continues the bigger will grow the tax rate and rents."

GOTHAM FIGHTS HARDER TO HALT TYPHUS CASES

Senate to Hasten Law on Aliens.

New York, Feb. 17.—Another suspected case of typhus was discovered by city health inspectors late today. The suspect, a steamer passenger, arrived here on the steamship Adriatic last Saturday.

Nearly 300 were held during the day for delousing. Of that number about 125 were detained when they were examined in the Grand Central station after their arrival by train from Boston.

Inspection Station Planned.
An immigrant inspection office at that station will be opened, with five doctors and four inspectors. It will be open day and night.

Health Commissioner Copeland declared immigration inspection facilities in Atlantic ports, chiefly New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, were "disgracefully ineffective."

"I have faith the typhus situation here among immigrants will improve," he said, "but I am far from being satisfied."

All vessels of the International Mercantile Marine company, it was announced today, will be equipped with disinfecting plants for cleaning the baggage of passengers brought from typhus infected countries.

May Restrict Entry.
Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—Enactment of the immigration restriction bill before adjournment of congress was made the object of a drive started today by senate leaders.

The movement began after Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, had declared "tens of thousands of undesirable, some of them typhus stricken, are to be let into the country" unless stopped by law.

The immigration measure, by agreement of Republican leaders, will be given privileged position tomorrow ahead of all pending legislation. A final vote next week was predicted, with confidence expressed generally that the legislation would be salvaged from the congressional jam.

"New York wants immigration to flow through its ports," Chairman Johnson of the house immigration committee said, "and has set up a howl when immigrants come through other ports in considerable numbers. Now the New York authorities are trying to make out that the public health service is not enforcing quarantine regulations at such ports as Boston and Philadelphia."

TIDE HALTED AT TRIESTE.
TRIESTE, Jan. 16.—Immigration from central Europe, including Poland, Yugoslavia, and Czechoslovakia, to the United States has been suspended and the eastern frontiers of Italy have been closed pending the cleaning up of the sanitary situation here according to American specifications to prevent the sailing of persons infected with typhus.

THE BANK OF KINDNESS

Draw a Check on It for the Unfortunate.

BY REV. G. A. MAC WHORTER.

Mrs. Edward S. Bailey, first vice president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will preside at a luncheon today at noon in the Marshall Field & Co. south grill room, at which women prominent in philanthropic enterprises will organize for a campaign to raise $250,000 to enlarge the scope of the Chicago Junior Home and Farm school.

The campaign will be launched next month under the patronage of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, honorary president for the last three years, and Judge Hugo Pam, president for the last eight years. It is a nonsectarian farm, home, and school for boys who have not had the advantages of home care and training.

GREECE, BRITAIN, EYE TO EYE ON SEVRES TREATY

Premier to Help Athens Help Herself.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
LONDON, Feb. 17.—The advance guard of the army diplomats arrived in London this evening in the persons of the staff of the Greek and Turkish delegations for the near east conference next Monday.

The leading members of the delegations as well as the French and Italian delegates will arrive next Sunday. When the conference begins there will be a trial of strength between Prime Minister Lloyd George on one side and the French and Italians on the other on the question of revising the Sevres treaty.

To Support Greek Claims.
Mr. Lloyd George is determined to support the claims of Greece if Greece shows evidence of good faith towards the allies. From a source of authority it is learned that he will advocate the old Gladiolus policy, the cornerstone of which is that Christian populations must not continue under the Turkish yoke.

At the same time he is not disposed to shed the blood of a single British soldier nor to spend a single British shilling to fight the battles of the Greeks. He is willing, if the Greeks are willing to fight their own battles, to help them in securing finances, but they must give their own security.

Views of France and Italy.
The French and Italians are desirous of reestablishing Turkey and restoring the territory given to Greece by the treaty, but also they are unwilling and unable to provide troops or money.

The German reparations conference meets in St. James palace the following Tuesday. The British policy in this matter will be to wait and see the German counter proposal and consider it upon its merits. Great Britain is anxious not to destroy Germany, as she looks to her both as a potential customer and a guard against bolshevism from eastern Europe. She is willing, therefore, to consider in a friendly spirit any counter proposal which Germany makes in good faith, but she is as determined as France that Germany must pay.

GOOD SECURITY DEMANDED FOR LOAN TO CHINA

Natives Not Keen for American Money.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
SHANGHAI, Feb. 17.—The agreement signed by the bankers composing the international consortium was made public in the press here today. No further information as to what course of action will be taken in making loans to the Chinese republic is given than the announcement that advances will only be made to the Chinese central and certain provincial governments or to public interests guaranteed by mentioned governments.

Most of the agreement as published is taken up with a discussion of the responsibility to be shared by each group and the method of disposing of the bonds after they are issued. No mention is made of security or supervision to insure payment.

Since Chinese bankers formed an internal consortium and advanced loans for railway material and an emergency loan to the central government for administrative purposes there seems to be a growing feeling among native officials and bankers that China does not need the assistance of foreign capital. The Chinese bankers are working out a plan for the supervision of all expenditures.

Baker to Army Dance Here
President Woodrow Wilson, President Elect Warren G. Harding, Secretary of War Baker, and Secretary of the Navy Daniels were invited yesterday to attend the inaugural ball of the Army and Navy Club of Chicago, to be held at the Drake hotel on Monday.

Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, president of the club, together with the other army officers, will be the guests of honor. Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes will make the address of the evening.

BEWARE RATTLE OF JAP SABERS, HOUSE IS TOLD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—Possibility of war between the United States and Japan was brought to the attention of the house today by Representative Miller of Washington, who pleaded for stronger defenses for the Pacific coast.

Representative Miller declared that war, if it comes, would be of Japan's making because Japan was seeking to colonize the Pacific coast states, which the latter will never permit.

"We hear the rattle of the saber from across the Pacific," he said. "There seems to be a national swagger over there. Curt answer and snubbing bearing towards Americans have become popular in Japan."

Miller said that many a nation had been led to war by the "clamor and jam" of her thoughtless class, and he relied on peace only through the ability of the statesmen of Japan to control the demagogues in that country.

$25,000 PAY ROLL ROBBERY CLEARED BY CONFESSIONS

A $25,000 payroll holdup which occurred May 12, 1920, was cleared up yesterday when Detective Sergeants Peter Bernacchi and James Coleman obtained confessions from three of the men who participated in it.

Those under arrest are James Hardy, 747 Kedvale avenue, James Cardella, 846 North Lawndale avenue, and Edwin Clifford, 640 North Springfield avenue. They are said to have confessed that they and a fourth man, who is being sought, held up Arthur Gustafson and Harold Bright, two employees of the Blue Valley Butter company, at Mather and Clinton streets and robbed them of $24,000 in pay checks and $2,518 in currency.

They declared they were planning another holdup of the company's payroll last Tuesday, but their plans were aborted because of their arrest as suspects in connection with the Kenwood bank robbery.

POLICEMAN SUES TO CHANGE ORDER OF PROMOTIONS

Since 1915 more than 3,000 police troops have been deprived of the right to take the civil service examination for sergeants, and unless the civil service commission alters its present promotional system they will be cheated out of the right for twenty years, according to a petition for a writ of mandamus filed in Circuit court yesterday.

The petition was filed by Patrolman
James Walsh through Attorney A. D.
Cash. It asks that the court order the commission to recognize immediately the illegality of the appointment of twenty-seven detective sergeants to police sergeants, and fill the vacancies from the eligible register of patrolmen prepared in 1915.

SILESIA TO STAY GERMAN, VIEW OF BERLIN OFFICIAL

BY GEORGE SELDES.

(Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune.)

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—Assured on every side in France—by officials, business men and military, including members of the French commission to Germany —that Poland will win the Silesian plebiscite which is scheduled to follow the Prussian elections this Sunday, I asked German officials their opinion of the plebiscite today.
"We dare not and will not lose Silesia," National Councilor Hasse, who heads the Silesian union, replied.
"We dare not because it would absolutely cripple Germany and make its payments of billions in indemnity more unlikely than it is at present. We won't lose Silesia because we have aroused the whole nation and 400,000
Silesian born Germans will return to vote."

Councilor Hasse says that Silesia, which is a Gary, Ind., and Pittsburgh coal and iron district, combined, will vote for Germany unless the French mission, which controls the interallied mission, arranges the plebiscite in three zones, the country district, the coal mines, where Poles predominate, and the factory district, where Germans predominate.

In the meantime French, Italian, and British troops are reinforcing the border to prevent outbreaks expected no matter how the vote goes.

BURGLAR ROBS 11 GIRLS AS TWENTY FROLIC AT PARTY

While twenty girls of the Phi Delta Gamma sorority were having a party last night in the parlor at the home of Miss Ethel Caprell, 6807 Stewart avenue, a burglar climbed into a rear bedroom and carried away purses, vanity cases, watches, handbags, a coat, and money belonging to eleven of them.
The total value of the loot is estimated at about $500.

The girls learned of their losses when the party broke up and they went to the room to get their wraps.
Miss Caprell was the first to notice the disturbed condition of the articles, which had been piled in orderly fashion on the bed. Then a cold draft from the window attracted her attention. A quick investigation disclosed that many articles were gone.

A black velvet hat valued at $15 belonging to Miss Mary Hancock, 6844
Parnell avenue, had been knocked from a chair and stepped on by the thief.
Other victims were Luella Hartsough,
6921 Wentworth avenue; Aida Croft,
6745 Lafayette avenue; Miss
Cay, 16521 Prospect avenue; Elsie Roeseke, 7644 Prairie avenue; Grace
Powell, 7339 Perry avenue; Helen Balley, 6255 Kimbark avenue; Edna Russell, West Seventy-seventh street;
Helen Prisman, 16339 South Wood street; Ruth Hammack, 7328 Princeton avenue, and Esther Holtz, 7328 South
Union avenue.

Frank Caprell, brother of the hostess, and several of the other more fortunate girls, who had kept their purses with them, provided carfare for the victims. Several told the police they remembered seeing a man watching them when they arrived.

EAT WHAT, WHEN I SAY, IS EVERS' TRAINING ORDER

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

"Dining room rules will be established by Manager Evers of the Cubs as soon as he and his squad of athletes reach the California training camp. Food is as delicious and plentiful in that part of the country that the hand-picked Evers, who came on to Chicago yesterday from his home in Troy, stated that the eating of the boys this season.

For several years the Cubs have trained at Pasadena and lived in a hotel which was proud of its table. The boys naturally overate because the food was tempting.

No Chance to Reduce. One found a banquet on the menu card three times a day, and after the ball players as a rule left the hotel when they went there, regardless of their athletic work. By the time they reached San Francisco they were sluggish from being overfed and every year the Frisco team was a majority of the games played against the Chicagoans.

It is the intention of the new Cub coach to have a special dining room special bill of fare for his athletes. There will be plenty of food of the substantial kind and less pastry, alligator pears, lobsters, and game. Then, too, the noon repast will be practically eliminated because of the plans of working on the ball field.

One Workout a Day. Only one workout a day will be held and it will be in the middle of the noon banquet is being served at the hotel. Evers stated he wouldn't hurry the boys in the morning, letting them sleep until 8:30, and then giving them an hour and a half of work to get into uniform.

Work will begin about 11 o'clock and continue right through until about 1 in the afternoon, then the fellows will have a light lunch served at the hotel, something like a cracker and a glass of milk, or maybe a couple of crackers and a lettuce leaf sandwich. The balance of the afternoon, except on days when games are booked, the athletes will be free to do as they please. A substantial dinner of meat and potatoes will be served the boys in the evening.

Evers' Idea Not New One. The one long workout a day method is used by some other managers, including Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Indians. Frank Chance drilled the old Cub machine that way, too, in training camp.

"I believe a good long drill of two to three hours in the middle of the day when the sun is warm is the best way to train," said Evers, in talking of the scheme. "Too much hard work is bad and often makes players go stale early in the season. In a couple of hours, or possibly three, the boys can work up a good perspiration and then wind up with a cool shower and rest. Then let the muscles rest until the next day and repeat the work. Any fellow can get into good shape after about three weeks of such work."

Johnny Mighty Optimistic. Asked how he felt about the Cubs' chances in the pennant race, Evers said: "Eight years ago when I managed the Cubs we started 37 to 1 in the spring a lot of fellows figured I had a seventh place club. We were only a game or so out of second place at the finish. I know the place and I am to manage a winner of the Cubs of today. There's no reason why that spirit shouldn't be developed."

Evers with Jack Doyle and about a dozen young pitchers and catchers will leave for Pasadena next Thursday, the balance of the squad going a week later.

HERZOG MAY GO TO PHILS' CLUB. Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—Newark's failure to get a franchise in the International Baseball league may result in the Phillies obtaining Charles "Buck" Herzog, veteran infielder of the National league. Two weeks ago Bill Donovan, the Phillies manager, made an offer for the services of Herzog.

Herzog has several offers, but the one from Donovan is the only known one from a big league club. Herzog said he is at either second or third base in the Phillies lineup.

Miss Bleibrey Victor in New South Wales Swim. (Chicago Tribune Foreign Service.) SYDNEY, N. S. W., Feb. 17.—Miss Bleibrey of Philadelphia today won the 220 yard women's swimming championship of New South Wales by a wide margin. Miss Bleibrey's rivals gave her a good race until the last fifty yards. Panny Durack, the Australian champion, who recently was married, was not competitive. Miss Bleibrey's time was 2:54.

Card Rookie Wants What He "Thinks He Is Worth." Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 17.—Pitcher Card, traded for four players by the Los Angeles coast league club to the St. Louis Nationals, said today he would not join the Cardinals unless they paid him what he "thinks he is worth."

MARTIN AND BRENNAN
WAIT BELL TO START
NEW YORK GO TONIGHT

A GOOD BOY
NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—(Special.)—Bob Martin, the Yankee soldier boxer who will meet Bill Brennan at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night was born at Albright, W. Va., on Nov. 11, 1897. Always a home loving boy, the tall fighter recently bought a home for his parents at Terre Alta, where Bob usually can be found when not kicking the life out of some opponent.

BY HARRY NEWMAN.
New York, Feb. 17.—(Special.)—Bill Brennan, the Chicago heavyweight, and Bob Martin, the A. E. F. champion, tucked away their training paraphernalia this evening and are now waiting the signal to start in their fifteen round quarrel at the Madison Square garden tomorrow night.

Brennan, as a result of his splendid showing against Dempsey, is the favorite among the members of the fraternity who like to gamble slightly on affairs of this nature, but the big soldier boxer also has a staunch set of admirers who figure his youth and hitting ability will upset Big Bill.

The soldier is the most confident boxer, and can see nothing in sight but victory. As a matter of fact Martin is satisfied in his own mind that he will knock out the westerner this evening and the trick in a much shorter period than it required Jack Dempsey to do it.

Martin says he will enter the ring at 185 pounds. Brennan expects to weigh around that figure.

LIGHTNING'S DENY BEATING.
Amour Square Lightnings deny being beaten by Association House Cubes, 22 to 10, last Saturday. Both teams were at the floor when given three minutes to decide a dispute, according to the Lightnings.

PUGILISTIC
Pointers & Pearson

HERE'S something new in pugilism. A father and son are out seeking matches, and the dad slips us a nice piece of literature to give them a boost. The original Young Kenny, now 44 years old, who boxed more than twenty years ago in Chicago, believes he still is a "card," and is anxious to land a match with any lightweight at 133 pounds.

His son, Young Kenny Jr., weighs 122 pounds, and his record shows several victories. The original Young Kenny fought many battles around Chicago, and was a knockout puncher, his record shows. He started battling in 1882. In recent years he has been teaching boxing in Kansas City.

The loop gymnasiums are not the only places that show activity these days. Out at the Vincennes Ave. Y. M. C. A., the step of the padded mitt is heard. Among those training there are Paddy Clancy, Frankie Schaefer, and others.

Floyd Fitzsimmons, the Benton Harbor promoter, slips us the information that Jack Kearns, acting for Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey, has agreed to box in the Benton Harbor ring on Labor day. It is now up to Fitz to find an opponent for Dempsey, and at this writing he doesn't know whom to pick.

MISSOURI RING BILL ADVANCES.
Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 17.—The Brogan boxing bill, which would make boxing legal in Missouri, was engrossed in the senate late today. The measure provides for a boxing commission, to be appointed by the governor, which would be empowered to regulate professional bouts in the state.

Amateur Mat Bouts to Be Held at C. H. I. on Monday.
Local wrestlers who will compete in the Central A. A. U. championships, to be conducted by the Slepner A. C. at Wicker Park hall March 24 and 25, will engage in a number of matches at the Chicago Hebrew Institute Monday night.

Fred Meyer of the institute team, who was a member of the Olympic team, will take on Piger of the Slepner A. C. in one of the main bouts, while Walter Maurer, Herbert Magida, and Sam Pannow will be principals in others.

PREHN AND MEYERS
PRIMED FOR REAL GO
AT COLISEUM TONIGHT

What promises to be one of the best wrestling matches of the season will be staged tonight at the Coliseum, where Johnny Meyers, claimant of the middleweight title, and Paul Prehn, mat instructor at the University of Illinois, will meet in a finish match.

The promoter and the wrestlers promise the contest will be on the level. There is too much at stake for either man to throw the contest. Prehn yesterday asserted he would not lay down to Meyers if he were to receive enough money to retire from the wrestling game. And Meyers made the same statement.

Both in Great Trim.
The grapplers assert they are in the best of condition. Each declared he is below the weight, 155 pounds at 6 o'clock this evening. The struggle hold will be the only lock barred and the celebrated double wrist lock, toe hold, and head lock may be the weapons employed by both men for victory.

Promoter Krone announced that the main bout will start promptly at 10:15 o'clock regardless of results of other matches. The doors at the Coliseum will open at 7 o'clock, and at 8:30 o'clock Capt. Walter Evans and John Klonis will meet in the one fall opener.

Belt Holder in Semi-Wisdom.
Henry Irstinger, holder of the Lord Zondale belt, emblematic of the international middleweight championship, will take holds with Heine Engel in the one fall semi-windup.

Advance sale of tickets indicates a crowd of 10,000 fans.

Washington Senate Gives Approval to Racing Bill.
Olympia, Wash., Feb. 17.—A bill establishing a state racing commission and permitting the use of pari-mutuel betting machines passed the state senate yesterday after a clause referring it to a vote of the people had been inserted. The bill now goes to the house.

MRS. BYFIELD IS VICTOR IN GOLF
TOURNEY MATCH

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—Sister golfers held the fore ground today in the women's championship over the Palm Beach club links when Miss Elaine Rosenthal and Mrs. Ernest Byfield of Chicago battled nineteen holes in the semi-finals. Mrs. Byfield won, 1 up. The other semi-final match was between Mrs. Quentin Pelzer and Miss Beatie Finn, with victory going to the former by 4 and 2.

Match Goes Extra Hole.
Mrs. Byfield was two down at the turn. She gained one hole and then was 1 down at the eighteenth when she made a birdie 3, holding a brilliant 20 foot putt from off the green and squared the match.

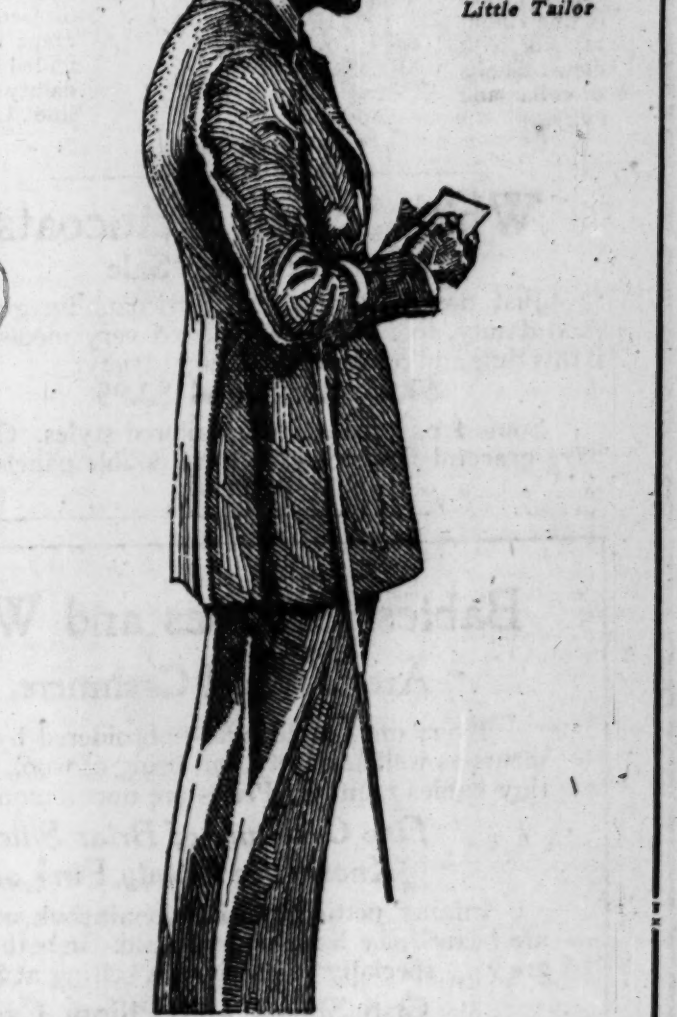

On the nineteenth Mrs. Byfield drove straight down the fairway and was on in a 2. Her sister, Miss Rosenthal, drove short to the left and then fell ten feet short of the green on her second shot. She played as evenly and missed a 30 foot putt by inches. Mrs. Byfield held an easy short putt for a three and the match.

Mrs. Felner Easy Victor.
Both Mrs. Felner and Miss Finn were off their game. Miss Finn was particularly erratic on the green. However, on the eleventh she made a fine putt for 20 feet. Mrs. Felner was two up at the turn and put the match away safely on the sixteenth.

UNION JANITORS
CHIEFS CHARGE
WITH EXTORTION

Owners Victims of "R of Terror," They Ass

Charges alleging that certain of janitors' unions have "resort to beating, assaults, picketing, and intimidation with the delivery of neces sary life to flat dwellers in their successful attempts at extortion building owners" were made by the Employers' As sociation of Chicago. The organiza tion made a fight on what it term ed "bullying janitors' union laws."

A few days ago the association which Attorney Dudley Taylor is sent out several thousand circulars to Chicago building o wners, confidential information showing "unlawful acts in further ance of janitors' strikes and boycotts
the past several years."

Some reports received were given yesterday by Mr. Taylor. One building owner reported:

"A union official came to me and said I was to be fined $200 for not paying. He refused to pay. They went to the basement of my bui lding and smashed the heating plant.
They turned out the water from the boiler and a fire, burning out a fu el thousands of dollars."

"They picketed the building and prevented the tenants from leaving their milk and ice. Stopped laundry from being returned."

The complainant said he finally paid $408 to "settle with the union."

Says Windows Were Smashed
Another owner reported that he had been "fined" something over $100. He demurred and four windows were broken with bricks thrown from the roof. He declar edly had to "kick in" with $200 the janitor was forced to "shell out" for a membership in the union."

A third complainant said he said he had violated union rules and been "fined" something over $100. He refused to pay. He asserted that of essentials were stopped.
Windows were broken, and the fur nace burned out. He finally capit ulated and went to union headquarters where he was told he would have to pay $408, he said.

"I asked them how they arrive at the figures and they said it was arbitrary," the landlord wrote. "I paid."

One man reported that a $900 assess against him when he refused to capitulate to janitors' u nion leaders. His building was picketed a year, windows were smashed, furnace burned out, deliveries stop ped and his janitor assaulted before he came to terms," he stated.

These examples are typical,"
Mr. Taylor. "We want the infor mation, the bare facts, now. Those of which we find are the most liab le found amenable to proof will be taken up later and a most careful investigation made. We will fight it to the last."

So quietly was the investigation made that no janitors' union leaders heard about it yesterday. None was quoted.

Purpose of the Questionnaire.
"This is a call to all good citi zens to help put an end to the lawless which has characterized so many of the janitors' strikes," reads the q uestionnaire. "We stand for law en forcement. You should help by furnis ing information."

The association has offices at City Hall Square building.
Mr. Taylor said when they have sufficient evidence the en tire will be laid before the sta tionary for action. Criminal in stances will be asked. State's Attor ney reserved comment.

"When the matter is officially before me I will know what to do and will be 'Let the law be enforce d' said."

UNION JANITORS' CHIEFS CHARGED WITH EXTORTION

Owners Victims of "Reign of Terror," They Assert.

Charges alleging that certain officials of janitors' unions have "resorted to kidnapping, assaults, picketing, and interference with the delivery of necessities to the residents in their own efforts to obtain a fight on what it terms the 'unlawful' acts in furtherance of their strikes and boycotts during the past several years."

By yesterday more than 150 questions had been returned with answers to "shakedown" ranging from $100 to $500 and all containing statements regarding alleged "rightfulness" practiced by the union officials.

Some Reports Given Out.

Some reports received were given out yesterday by Mr. Taylor. One flat building owner reported:

"A union official came to me and asked me to be fined $200. I refused to pay. They broke through a window and smashed several valves on the heating plant. Drew the water from the boilers and left a fire, burning out a furnace worth thousands of dollars."

"They picketed the building for four days, preventing the tenants from getting their milk and ice. Stopped the laundry from being returned."

The complainant said he finally had to pay $400 to "settle with the high-lights."

Says Windows Were Smashed.

Another owner reported that he was told he would have to "unhinge" his windows. He demurred and fourteen windows were broken with bricks by union leaders, he said. He declared he had to "kick in" with $200 and the janitor was forced to "shell out" for a membership in the union.

A third complainant said he was told he had violated union rules and had been "fined" something over $200. He refused to pay. He asserted his building was "stink bombed," deliveries of essentials were stopped, windows were broken, and the furnace turned out. He finally capitulated and the janitor was forced to "shell out" for a membership in the union.

Calls Examples Typical.

"These examples are typical," said Mr. Taylor. "We want the information on the facts, now. Those cases which we are the most liable to find amenable to proof will be taken up later and a most careful investigation made. We will fight them to the last."

He quickly was the investigation began that no janitors' union leaders had been arrested yesterday. None would be arrested.

Purpose of the Questionnaire.

"This is a call to all good citizens who put an end to the lawlessness which has characterized so many of the janitors' strikes," reads the questionnaire. "We stand for law enforcement. You should help by furnishing information."

The association has offices at 1818 West Madison street.

Mr. Taylor said when they have obtained sufficient evidence the entire matter will be laid before the state's attorney for action. Criminal indictments will be asked. State's attorney reserves comment.

"When the matter is officially laid before me I will know what to say," he said. "Let the law be enforced."

Free to Dance Alone

Dancer Who Won Divorce from Light Footed Husband and Friend Who Helped Her Get Decree.

BEATRIX SAVOY. MRS. BERNICE RULOFF.

Mrs. Bernice Ksenofontoff Ruloff, Russian toe dancer, yesterday lost the custody of her 3 year old daughter, Zena, but gained a divorce. Alexander Ruloff of New York, also a dancer, was awarded the child.

Mrs. Ruloff testified that on Jan. 3, 1918, her husband deserted her while she was in a hospital at Little Rock, Ark., and took the baby with him. Since then she has been attempting to gain possession of the child.

Miss Beatrix Savoy, a dancer and for several years a friend of Mrs. Ruloff's, substantiated the latter's testimony.

Attorney Maxwell Landis, counsel for Mrs. Ruloff, told the court she had agreed to a settlement of $300 cash and $100 for solicitors' fees in lieu of further claims to alimony. She also retained the right to advise the father concerning the girl's education.

EX-OFFICIALS OF BARBERS' UNION MUST GO TO CELL

High Court Upholds Plot Verdict.

Arthur Benedict Raymond, former president, and Raymond Harrison Williams, former secretary and business agent of the Barbers' union, must go to the penitentiary to serve a two years sentence for criminal conspiracy. The Supreme court of Illinois yesterday affirmed the conviction which they received early in 1919 in Judge Kersten's court.

They were found guilty of bombing, property destruction, and conspiring to create a general reign of terror in connection with the barbers' strike in the summer of 1918.

Evilmen Found in Raid.

The men were indicted in June, 1918, with four other members and officials of the union. Bombs were found in the union headquarters. Notebooks containing data regarding bombing and window smashing, the prices received for the "jobs," and other evidence valuable to the prosecution were seized. The outrages were started, according to members of the union and hired slugs, to force the Master Barbers' association to meet the union's demands. The perpetrators received $100 for a "successful" bombing, $75 for a "fair job," $20 for a stench bomb throwing, and $10 for the breaking of a plate glass window. Many as fifteen crimes were committed nightly during the height of the union fight.

On Bond Pending Appeal.

Both Williams and Raymond are out on writs of supersedeas and could not be found last night. The police, not having been officially informed of the Supreme court decision, had not sought them. They are said to be "where the police can get them if they want them," according to press reports of the territorialists' organization.

Waukegan, Ill., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—Klarnburg B. Wilson of Oak Park, who started Waukegan last week when he caused the arrest of Herman A. Meyers, Fox Lake boat builder, and Mrs. Wilson, today asked that the case, which was to come up today before Justice A. H. Meyers at Fox Lake, be dismissed. Friends said that Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are now suing her husband for divorce, naming Mrs. Wilson.

CHIEF DEFENDS MOVIES; FIGHTS CENSORSHIP PLAN

Startles Reformers by His Frankness.

On the ground that creation of a special bureau of moving picture censorship would deprive him of a weapon against crime, Chief of Police Fitzmorris opposed the move before the council judiciary committee yesterday and challenged the advocates of a stricter censorship to pick flaws in the present system of police regulation.

Throughout the two hour hearing the chief kept interlarding the debate with the following statement:

"What's the matter with the present system? Give me evidence that it is a failure. I have heard no complaints against it since I took office. I think movie censorship is an integral part of police work, just as much so in fact as any other feature of crime suppression."

Makes Frank Answers.

Several times the chief made the advocates of a "blue" censorship gasp by the frankness of his answers.

"Don't you object to the salacious posters showing nude figures before movie houses on Madison street?" asked Mrs. Henry Solomon, representing women's clubs on the committee which recommended the change.

"I pass along Madison street occasionally. If I had seen any pictures like those I would have suppressed them at once," replied the chief.

"Do you mean to say you would stand for this?" asked William Burgess, representing the Illinois Vigilance association, reading a poster which was headed: "A Gamble in Souls; Can a Woman be Safe with a Man on a Desert Isle?"

Approves of Poster.

"I don't see anything the matter with it," announced the chief, while social workers gasped and the gallery applauded.

"I can show you a picture showing a master criminal standing on a globe," said Arthur Burrage Farwell of the Chicago Law and Order league. "I complained about it to you."

"Yes, and following your complaint, I issued an order that no permits be issued for such pictures," replied the chief.

"Do you believe in the pink permit?" queried Attorney Timothy D. Hurley, chairman of the commission.

"No," said the chief emphatically.

"Do you believe in depicting robbery with a gun?" asked Mr. Hurley, to which the chief replied in the negative.

"Have you seen Chaplin in 'The Kid' where there is robbery and abandonment?" pursued Mr. Hurley. "I saw that picture and I thought it was immense," the chief replied.

Others Make Objection.

Mrs. William A. Sauer, president of the DePaul Catholic Women's club, spoke briefly. She stated that in her opinion two moving pictures, "The Thirteenth Bride" and "Midsummer Madness" now being exhibited in theaters, should be prohibited.

Mrs. George V. McIntyre, president of the Big Sisters, said that the play "Dangerous Business," now being shown at the Pantages theater, should also be excluded.

Near the close of the session the chief declared that "not one valid objection has been made to the present censorship system." Chairman Olson of the judiciary committee announced that another hearing will be held next Wednesday afternoon.

Contempt Charge Against

Chief Over Movie Film

Chief of Police Fitzmorris was cited to show cause yesterday why he should not be punished for contempt of court for alleged refusal to obey a peremptory writ of mandamus granted on Jan. 17 by Judge Donald Morrill of the Circuit court. The citation was issued on the petition of the Albee Clement picture company and Albert Goldman, who aver the chief refuses to issue a permit for the exhibition of one of their motion pictures. The writ of mandamus ordered the issuance of the permit. It was contended.

Drainage Board Trustees

Trustee Morris Eller, chairman of the sanitary district employment committee, yesterday presented a report to the trustees of the district at the regular meeting stating that 300 employees under the old regime had been discharged and 300 others had been engaged to take their places. Trustee Eller said this action had been taken to reduce operating expenses. All trustees voted to accept the report with the exception of Trustee William J. Healy. Trustees Willis O. Nance and Charles H. Serger were absent.

Ask Pastor to Quit.

A petition was immediately circulated by the "progressives" and addressed to the pastor demanding his resignation. The circular reads:

"We, the undersigned voters of the First Swedish Lutheran church of Rockford, fully realizing that harmony and good feeling within this congregation cannot be secured nor future welfare assured except by a change of pastors, hereby request you to resign as pastor of this congregation."

Mr. Sedoff refuses to take any action concerning Anderson's reinstatement. "The action of the board of deacons in dropping Anderson was unanimous," he declared. "I can do nothing."

ASKS PASTOR TO PREACH ENGLISH; OUT OF CHURCH

Swedish Lutherans Split by Row.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 17.—(Special.)—The congregation of the First Swedish Lutheran church here is split over the question of whether English shall be preached from the pulpit.

The fight has become so bitter between the younger and older members of the congregation that already the board of deacons has dismissed the leader of the "progressives" while the latter have retaliated by demanding the resignation of the present pastor.

The opposition to English being used part of the time in the church is on the part of the older members. The pastor, John F. Sedoff, who has been in charge of the church for twenty-five years, has never preached in anything except Swedish, and declares that he will not couch his sermon in a new language. He also refuses to resign.

Votes Use of English.

On Jan. 1 the congregation by a vote decided that English would be used part of the year. At that time it was pointed out that many of the younger generation spoke English and would prefer to hear their sermons in that language.

But Rev. Mr. Sedoff continued his services in Swedish. He was backed by the older members.

It was then that former State Senator A. J. Anderson, a wealthy overall manufacturer, headed the "progressives" and demanded English part of the time. The fight came to a climax Sunday when the pastor announced from the pulpit that the board of deacons had voted to dismiss Mr. Anderson from the church. The congregation was thunderstruck. Mr. Anderson had been connected with the church since boyhood and his father, now deceased, was one of the first members of the congregation.

Wealthy residents of Evanston stood by ready to form a bucket brigade last night when a fire destroyed the garage in the rear of the James Deering estate at Judson avenue and Church street. THEATER CROWDS

SEE COP SHOOT AT AUTO THIEVES

Scores of persons on their way to loop theaters last night witnessed a battle between two policemen and two automobile thieves, who escaped with a car belonging to the Union Liberty company, a furniture concern at 220 South State street.

Frank Perowski, 4705 South Ashland avenue, treasurer of the company, was in the lobby of the National Life building at 29 South La Salle street when he saw the two men leap into the car and drive north. He rushed out and pursued the machine as it turned east in Madison street.

Traffic Policeman James J. Burke, stationed at Clark street, heard Perowski's calls for help and swung aboard the car as it shot past him. He was reaching for the gun when one of the men struck him, breaking his hold on the car. Burke fell to the pavement and Perowski drove over and over as the car sped towards Dearborn street.

Three Policemen John Weldon, with drawn revolver, blocked the way, but the driver of the car eluded him by turning south in Dearborn street. Weldon fired two shots at the racing machine, but the driver merely stepped on the gas. Burke came limping up, commanded a passing machine, and he and Weldon attempted to overtake the car, but it outdistanced them.

Burke was taken to the Froquois hospital, where an injury to his knee was dressed.

AURORA MODISTE

FINDS DREAMS GO "BY CONTRARIES"

Aurora, Ill., Feb. 17.—Miss Ida Glasahagel, a dressmaker, who was wooed and won in two weeks by the Rev. Maurice Bodine of Chicago, says she never wishes to see his handsome face again, but she would like to recover her flivver coupe. And she is cured forever of believing in dreams.

The bridegroom is motoring somewhere in the west. The bride has filed suit for annulment of the marriage, alleging it was illegal, inasmuch as he had been divorced and a year had not elapsed. She didn't learn of the first wife until after he had left, she says.

The Man of Her Dreams.

"I'm cured," she told a reporter. "No more men for me. But he was a dream. He was the sweetest man I ever walked into Aurora. And he certainly had the gift of speech. He was a salesman on the side. I'll bet he could have sold safety razors in Russia. Although he was 52 years old, he dressed smartly."

"The first time I saw him I said to myself, 'There's the man of my dreams.'"

Friends say she had dreamed a handsome stranger would come to her home in search of a room, propose to her, and make her his wife.

"He made wonderful love," she continued. "It was a whirlwind courtship. I guess what helped to impress me was the magnificent way in which he handled my flivver. He could start the engine at one crank and he got more gas mileage than any one I've ever known. But I never thought I'd be married to a minister."

A Flivver to Oblivion.

"One day he said to me: 'I've been called to accept a pastorate in Iowa.' He drove away in the flivver. I suspected nothing. Then I received a letter from him. He was in Oklahoma. He didn't like Iowa, he said. He was going to California. He asked me to join him, but he didn't send any money or give any address."

She says she doesn't care how far west Mr. Bodine goes, but hopes he sends the flivver back.

Mr. Bodine is quoted as saying he went to her home by mistake and was mistaken for the hero of her dream romance.

MOTHER BALKS EFFORT "TO FREE" MISS TOWNSEND

Won't Let Daughter Reply to Brother.

Efforts of her father and brothers to free Marian Townsend from what they term the "domination" of her mother Mrs. Asha Townsend, failed completely yesterday.

After the coroner's inquiry into the death and burial of Mrs. Nancy Maria Chamberlain, 81 years old mother of Mrs. Townsend, had been continued, the offer of her father and brothers to provide a career for her was told to Marian. At the time she and her mother were still prisoners at the Hudson avenue detention home.

Mother Bauls.

"What plans have you in case you are freed after the inquest?" Marian was asked.

A slow smile spread over her face. "O, if I am freed! Well, I would go."

But the piercing eyed mother had slipped to her side and, grasping her hand, pressed it.

"My daughter has nothing to say," she said as she led the girl away.

Later the other inmates of the detention home shrank away from the mother as she sat hunched over the bedside of her daughter, muttering, laughing a peculiarly grating chuckle, and saying, as she gazed into space: "Power is one, not two. Power is one, not two."

New Theory Evolved.

A new theory of the cause of the death of Mrs. Chamberlain was evolved during the day by Mrs. Frederick James Townsend, wife of Mrs. Townsend's son. She suggested that the aged woman might have deliberately starved herself to enable Mrs. Townsend to test her power of communicating with the "spirit world."

"It would not surprise me a bit if Mrs. Chamberlain hoped and prayed for death, so that the other two might get in touch with her in the spirit world," declared Mrs. Frederick Townsend. "It is all distasteful to me, but I suppose Mrs. Chamberlain was told by the spirits to go out and die, and she did. Well, I'm glad she's all over."

Tells of Spirit Trances.

Mrs. Frederick Townsend told how her mother-in-law had sought, by means of "spirit warnings," trances, and other means, to prevent her son's marriage.

Two years ago Frederick told her that he was to be married, said the daughter-in-law. "For some reason she did not like me. She told Fred that he would never be married," cried Mrs. Townsend. "The spirits had warned her that he would not be happy with me," she said. "So we actually had to run away to get married. Those women are not responsible when they start talking to the spirits."

"I believe that the reason Mrs. Townsend opposed our marriage was because she thought Fred would in time be converted to her beliefs and because of his youth would be able to help them in their experiments."

Pass Ordinance Sincerely.

Meanwhile in Chicago the two women, mother and daughter had anxiously and cautiously passed through the ordeal of the first day of the inquest into the strange death and burial of the old woman.

A fascinated crowd watched them in the undertaking rooms at 177 South Michigan avenue and had many thrills from the weird conversation of the women. Constantly they interspersed their talk with the mystic formula:

"Power is one, not two."

Coroner Hoffman, who conducted the inquiry personally, grew impatient, but the women only told him he "could not understand." At length he was forced to continue the inquest until Feb. 24 to give time to straighten out the tangled skein of words and allow the chemists to analyze the vital organs of the old woman for possible poisons.

Two Women Faint During

Trials in Courtrooms

Two women fainted in courtrooms yesterday. Mrs. Larry Walsh, wife of a prominent Chicago attorney, fainted in Judge George Kersten's court while listening to evidence against her husband. Mrs. Belle Martin, 2246 South Wabash avenue, collapsed in Judge Frank John's court while recounting her experiences with burglars who robbed her of $300. Judge Kersten lowered Walsh's head and advised him to go to work and support his wife, and two children, while waiting trial, after Mrs. Walsh declared her family had been days without food.

"Blue Sky" Stock Sellers

Held to the Grand Jury

Charles Jones, chief of the newest "endless chain" stock selling syndicate, and four of his associates were held to the grand jury under $2,000 bonds each yesterday. Jones had been brought from Cleveland by operatives of State's Attorney Crowe's office and charged with conspiracy and operating a confidence game. The Jones syndicate is said to have unloaded between $150,000 and $300,000 worth of Standard Parts company stock to people "back of the yards" at $50 a share. He is said to have bought up the stock at $2 a share.

By Mae Tinée.

Whatever else a George Fitzmaurice production may be, it is sure to be laughably staged. He is the fancy pudding chef of the movies. His concoctions are always magnificently whipped, frosted, marshmallowed, merengued and machined cherried. With him the play is not so much the thing as the way the play is served. Hand it to him—he has a great eye for effect.

We have all learned by our own painful experiences that those who dance must pay the piper. The production under discussion calls you to witness the sad adventures of a number of people—most of them too rich for their own good, who are brought to a thundering realization that life must be lived, not frittered.

The best people in the cast, I think you will admit, are Dorothy Dickson, Rod La Rocque, and George Fawcett. The rest are more or less puppets, who nevertheless respond in quite satisfactory fashion to the directorial string-pulling.

If by any chance you've never given the subject any consideration, "Paying the Piper" provides you with something to think about. If you have, it won't hurt you to ponder a little more.

That the picture is a little incoherent at times may be due to a censor's indignation.

As it stands, however, the film is worth seeing, if for no other reason than its wealth of decorative display.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

L. F. NOW I HAVE YOUR LETTER apologizing for not including the stamp for the material you wanted, and this time you sign initials only—no name or address. And so I am more at sea than ever. I am afraid sometimes I may be blamed for carelessness when it is the writer's own failure to include stamped envelope with the name clearly indicated thereon. Another frequent mistake is sending the request on a postal card. The latter must then await its turn to be answered in this column, for to mail you information I must ask the stamped addressed envelope.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondence.)—Wraps afford a wide variety of choice in sport costumes. The sweaters are frequently of the jumper style with round or V neck and the metallic note is sounded strongly. The favorite coat is the loose box one of contrasting color and material. And the capes are variously of knitted wool, camel's hair, tweed, or one of the silk materials. The accompanying model shows a skirt of coffee colored Canton crepe, one of the materials most favored this season for this garment. With it goes a smart little jacket of Shantung weave in a stunning design of brown and russet. This is bound and girdled with brown grosgrain ribbons.

When Teacher Was Tardy.

I was teaching school in the country. It was late one morning when I started for the schoolhouse, and wishing to take the shortest way possible I cut the distance a half mile by taking the road through the fields. A sort of a permanent swinging gate opened into the road and it opened and closed by pulling on two large handles that were far above my head and were reached by standing up in a buggy or wagon. I decided to climb over the gate and succeeded far enough to get one foot on each side of the gate when it slowly swung wide open and I kept my balance by holding on tight with both hands to the top board of the gate. I climbed down feeling lucky that no one had seen me when a masculine voice behind me said, "Here is your book that you dropped." He was a neighbor and one of the directors of the school. F. G.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Cooking Oatmeal.

Some years ago one of the experiment stations worked out a digestible breakfast cereal for the poor. The general conclusion was that for even those who had no time to cook, oatmeal could be cooked in ten minutes.

Cooking is a sort of digestion. The old soup kettle was a good digester and the word was formed to quite an extent to denote cooking processes.

Put one cup of rolled oats into top of a double boiler. Add two cups of cold water and a teaspoon of salt. Set the top kettle in the lower in which the water is boiling. As soon as it boils up again, stir under it, and let the oatmeal cook at least two hours and perhaps three. This may be done at dinner time.

In the morning put hot water lower part of boiler, set in top containing cooked oatmeal, and let it stand a part of the day's rest, and the breakfast is provided for the easiest of ways.

The oatmeal and water may be directly over the stove and cook until the whole is thick before putting in the top part of the double boiler, which it is in the lower part. It is some advantage in this if you have the time to stand and stir it.

To those who want to break coffee habit, as some of my correspondents do. Perfectly cooked oatmeal leaves no headaches, and it will not be intestinal fermentation, being without coffee if you are an addict will likely result in headaches for few days at first.

Lincoln Favor
Blue Laws? No,
Says Drinkwater

The Fortnightly held an open meeting yesterday in the rooms of the Anti-Slavery Society in the Art Institute. John Drinkwater, president of the society, presided. He was introduced by Mrs. Arthur L. Farwell, president of the society. Among those present were the Mesdames William H. Bauman, Harry Pratt Johnson, William O. Goodman, William A. Field, Lewis L. McArthur, Hugh McArthur, Birney Johnston, and Joseph J. Wentworth. Charles W. Dempster, James L. Houghtaling Jr., Tracy C. Drake, William G. Sage, Howard Elting, James W. Morrison, T. B. Blackstone, Hon. William Musgrave, Charles S. Holt, and the Mesdames Harriett Houghtaling, Naomi Donnelly, and Dorothy Sterling. Following Mr. Drinkwater's talk, tea was served.

Would Abraham Lincoln have favored "blue laws," Mr. Drinkwater was asked after the meeting. His answer was an emphatic no.

"I think the spirit of Lincoln was to do without such laws," he said. "Of course it is not for me to say just what another country should do, but I understand every one reveres Lincoln's ideas of things. I myself think such laws, like prohibition, are silly."

Mr. Drinkwater is the guest of David Goodwillie. He is stopping at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Today he will speak at a luncheon given by the Midland Authors, and later the Cordon will entertain him at tea. He is preparing a new play about Robert E. Lee.

Betrothal at Tea

Mrs. Francis T. Simmons of 21 East Goethe street announces the engagement of her daughter, Kathryn Elizabeth Simmons, to Louis M. Blankenhorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Blankenhorn of Pasadena, Cal. The announcement was made yesterday at a tea given for Mrs. Simmons at her residence, 532 Eldorado street, Pasadena, where she and her daughter have been since early last fall.

Miss Simmons is a popular member of the younger set here and also in Pasadena. Her fiancé is a partner in the real estate firm of Blankenhorn-Hunter company, of which the other partner is Robert Hunter, formerly of Chicago, who married Gwendolyn Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell of 1550 State parkway. Mr. Blankenhorn served as an ensign in the navy during the war. The wedding probably will take place in Pasadena in May.

Mr. Stock Utilizes
Movies in Music
Lesson for "Kids"

Mr. Stock introduced an innovation on the fifth program of the children's concerts, series A, at Orchestra hall yesterday. With the aid of a motion picture screen he gave his turbulent youthful audience a little lesson in music writing and the appearance of that symphonist's bible, an orchestral score. Since some of his auditors were of the impressive ages of 7 and 8, it was natural that he used only the simplest notes, the elemental key of C, and pianest and most undorned harmony in his demonstration.

It is a remarkably fine and yet prosaically practical work that Mr. Stock is doing on these cheery Thursday afternoons. Yesterday he included in his program Haydn's "The Clock," Wagner's "Magic Fire Scene" from the Walkure, and Kreisler's Viennese waltz.

The pianistic ability and gifts of Harold Henry are so well known to Chicago's music lovers that they need no lengthy comment here. In his recital last night at Kimball hall, given for the benefit of the fund of the Edward MacDowell association, Inc., he was at his best. He played Sonata No. 2 by Beethoven, a MacDowell group, and a pleasant cheerful fragment of his own manufacture, "The Dancing Marionette." His audience crowded the hall and approved of his accomplishments immensely.

LIBERTY ISSUE,
AT PAR, RECALLS
AND PROVISIONS

BY O. A. MATHER.

The first time in a year one issue of Liberty bonds sold at par yesterday, which mature June 15, 1947. They were sold up to 102.05 in October, 1920, at 100.50 in January, 1921, and at 98.50 in May, 1920.

The high price of this issue is no particular cause for elation, however, as the amount outstanding is less than $100,000,000 and so is subject to considerable variation in price. The present price is chiefly interesting in recalling the history of this issue and the provisions which generally known.

When Will War Be Over?

The issue originally was the first $100,000,000 of $5,000,000 bonds. The first war loan about $500,000,000 was converted into subsequent issues.

The conversions being approximately: $100,000,000 of $5,000,000 bonds to $100,000,000 of $5,000,000 bonds.

Now there are some unique provisions connected with this as well as other converted issues. One of these provisions brings up the question: "When will war be over?"

It is provided that these bonds shall be exempt from federal surtax and excess profits tax up to $15,000 held under certain conditions for five years after "final peace" is declared.

The United States still is technically at war with Germany and will be until a peace treaty is signed or peace declared by congressional resolution.

At the same time, the delay in declaring peace would well make a considerable difference in the taxes Uncle Sam can collect in the next few years.

Great Foreign Credit—Garry.

Citing as an example the readiness of the United States Steel corporation to extend credit up to $20,000,000, Robert H. Garry, chairman of its board of directors, yesterday advocated granting of credit to foreign buyers who are unable to make immediate payments for their purchases.

Mr. Garry said, "The United States Steel corporation has been sent to these countries as an aid to restoration and rehabilitation of foreign countries. At the same time, he stated, the credit situation could be relieved materially through cash payments by American buyers for purchases."

Competition Little Feared.

Competition by French and German steelmakers is little feared, Mr. Garry said, there being no possibility of it until rehabilitation in both of those countries is complete and their needs are met.

Only the low wages ordinarily paid to European labor made it possible for foreign manufacturers to compete in our market," he added. "If they should revert to the low wage standards, a tariff, it is necessary to protect American industry and insure fair competition."

Declaring price readjustments, Mr. Garry remarked that "undue haste is usually contrary," although he said he would like to see them proceed as rapidly as possible. He doubted if the reduction in steel prices recently announced by several independent plants had brought much business. On the contrary, he thought from sales of the independent mills would show a rapid increase.

New Dividends Reduced.

Two more industrial concerns yesterday announced dividend reductions. The directors of the American Bosch Magneto corporation declared a quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share, payable April 1.

The Cambridge Steel company declared a dividend of 10 per cent, payable March 15, on stock of record February 25. Payments on a quarterly dividend of 14 per cent and an extra 15 of 1 per cent was paid.

ENCLOSED you will find the photograph of a girl I am sure will 'cop the coin.'—C. P. L.

"I am a believer in the saying that variety is the spice of life. Here is a rather good likeness of the original! She is out of the ordinary. Don't you think so?"—S. F.

"I am sending in my photo. I suppose no poor girl has a chance, but hope a Chicago girl will win."—R. H.

"Here is a real American beauty, and her beauty is more than skin deep."—L. P.

These are extracts from some of the letters that accompany photographs entered in THE TRIBUNE'S $20,000 beauty contest, interest in which grows stronger every day.

The supposition that a poor girl has no chance, as expressed by R. H., has been previously refuted, but it is perhaps just as well to again emphasize the fact that in this contest it makes no difference whether a girl be rich or poor.

The contest is open to every girl, unmarried or a widow, who resides anywhere in the five states, except professional beauties. And $20,000 will be awarded to the sixty most beautiful girls found in the section.

Ten thousand dollars will be awarded as a grand prize to the girl whom the

Art Institute judges deem the most beautiful of all the girls in the central west. RAILWAYS NATION-WAGE BAR

Want Right to with Own M

BY ARTHUR M. B.

Railway executives "thumbs down" verdict of the proposals of union labor board that the contrary working agrees wages of unskilled labor to a national joint conference and the unions for a

In a closed meeting at hotel, attended by more than 100 of the country, the of Railway Executives adopted a report from its committee, of which Gen. W. V. is chairman, and then adopted resolutions laying down principles by which the should guide the carriers in their relations with their employees.

Against Nation-Wide B.

The gist of the declaration is that the railways "take" that collective bargaining line-wide lines is ine with efficient and economic operation of the railroads. Thus, on fundamentals it is back to where it was when the industry started. But the collective bargaining laws drawn tighter than a drum. The unions insist on gaining on the basis of the national unions. The railway executives are thus met with a new demand acquiesced in by the labor to deprive individual carriers of negotiations with their own employees. That's the line—Unions vs. Public Interest.

The leaders of the industry have taken the position they have taken in the past. The issue of whether or not the railways should be nationalized is a question of public interest and economic operation of the transportation system.

The association avowed its opposition to the national workmen is not an attack upon the national workmen. It is a declaration that the union demand for "nationalization" of the interests of the big unions.

"The railroads are thus with this situation," it said, "endeavoring to escape from rigid and uniform rules and conditions inherited from the past. A new demand is met with a new demand. The labor board is by the labor to deprive individual carriers of negotiations with their own employees. That's the line—Unions vs. Public Interest."

These demands amount to a nationalization of the railroads, but against the real interests of the country. Such nationalization is incompatible with the economic operation of the railroads.

As to the movement to reorganize common labor, the executive board of the industry advised that the decision of the board "relegates the initiative upon this matter to the industry and their own employees. As was contended, individual lines will wages question with their employees in order that the matter brought before the labor board shape of definite controversy.

Would Join Rate and Wage

Appropriately of this, the board yesterday to issue a formal explanation to railway workers. Reductions cannot be for them until new rates have been established. The petition was filed by S. Grable, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, and the American Railway Shop Laborers.

He asked it "because all were not fully informed as to the and some of them as individual small groups may be persuaded into accepting volunteer reductions which the carriers undertake to make generally."

The labor board itself postponed March 1 further hearings on the nationalization. It granted the petition of the American Railway Shop Laborers, but his rebuttal. On March board will take up evidence by the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, the clerks, and others and signalmen in named.
